Viepchaklstial!

Welcome to the Viepchaklstial Edition of Conversational Zdetl, the second update to the instructional book I published in 2024 and the latest product in a growing lineup of Zdetl books written for use with the *Traveller*TM games created by Game Designers' Workshop in 1977 and now published by Mongoose Publishing. In this edition you'll find a bunch of new stuff like answer keys to the chapter exercises (those were needed), new illustrations and art scattered throughout the text, more Useful Phrases to add flavor to your game (or just confuse your friends), and a special Behind The Name addition to the Word Conversion appendix.

But what is Viepchaklstial, anyway? On the Zhodani calendar, it's the second of four major holidays or zhdanzhdanstrial, in the Zhodani year and is the first holiday following Dranzhrin, the New Year's Day holiday. On the modern calendar it falls between the seasons (shidr) of Atrint and Vrienstrial, when the spring rains begin to wane and the weather gets warmer during the summer. Its origins are not well known today, but it is likely to have once been held during the vernal equinox, which would place it midway through Vrienstrial.

The precise origins of Viepchaklstial are not well known, though it may have begun with the early development of agriculture and farming on Zhdant, possibly sometime during the time of what is now known as the Viepchaklashtie Empire, a Bronze Age/early Iron Age civilization that flourished on Zhdant about 25,000 to 30,000 years ago. What is known, however, is that in modern times as in ancient Zhodani history, it is a time of great celebration when the normally calm, reserved Zhodani are allowed and even encouraged (though within reasonable limits) to really cut loose and engage in wild revelry. Parties are held in every community and the festivities often extend well into the next day. It's expected that the Tavrchedl will have their hands full dealing with zhant'ad who perhaps imbibed or got a little too enthusiastic in their revelry.

Introduction

Viepcaklstial is celebrated on virtually every world throughout the consulate, though the precise day sometimes varies according to the solar calendar. Ships in space follow Zhdant-local sidreal time as a shipboard standard so crews under way can expect consistent timing of holidays.

On a more personal note, this year's Viepcaklstial Edition marks the sixth year of language development for me, or a second teqozdij in Zhdani terms. I think that's cause for celebration. This edition also coincides with the publication of its companion volume, the 3K edition of the Complete Zdetl Dictionary.

As always, the language continues to grow and evolve like any good language should. Words will continue to be added to the lexicon, lessons will continue to be built, and I will continue to rely on the advice and assistance of the members of the Zhdani Language and Cultural Institute on Facebook and other social media platforms.

Once again, I want to thank the men and women of the ZLI, who are now too numerous to mention but without whom I'd not have enjoyed it nearly as much, and my good friend Maksim Smelchak, who was instrumental in getting the project off the ground and into space.

As always, many heartfelt thanks again to Marc Miller and the good people at GDW and Far Future Enterprises for creating Traveller and making it possible to do this, as well as Mongoose Publishing for continuing the good work and keeping Traveller alive.

Another special shout-out to P.O. Bergstedt, who created the Zhdani truetype font used in this book.

And last but not least, to the late J.R.R. Tolkien, Edgar Rice Burroughs, and other fantasy and science fiction writers who showed me that languages didn't have to be confined to the real world but could, in fact, be imagined and created.

If I've forgotten anyone, just write your name on a page somewhere. I'm sure there's room.

Happy Travelling, and fiedlo'd zhdaenzh!

Foreword

Zdetl is the official language of the Zhodani Consulate. As such it is the language of trade, governance, science, art, and daily discourse for eight trillion sophonts living in a region to Coreward and Spinward of the Third Imperium. Unlike the major language of the Third Imperium, Galanglic, Zdetl was purposely devised over 6,000 Standard years ago as a highly regular and expressive mode of verbal communication and has not changed appreciably over that period save to add terms for novel concepts and new things encountered by the Zhodani during their expansion into Charted Space and beyond, towards the Galactic Core.

All Zhodani learn Zdetl as their native tongue, and other sophonts within the Consulate are instructed in it as they would require it to engage in trade and discourse. Dialects exist for beings unable to voice the language's phonemes, but the graphic version is unchanged. Idiolects and minor differences of pronunciation and idiom exist but are not officially supported by the Consulate and amount to minor regional differences.

The other primary difference between Zdetl and any other language in Charted Space is its method of instruction. Language acquisition by almost all new speakers of Zdetl is heavily assisted by telepathy used by Zhodani instructors. This primer and its course of instruction does not support telepathic augmentation since it is intended for Imperial students (and other Galanglic speakers) with the goal of understanding the basic written and spoken forms of the language.

Over ninety percent of Zdetl speakers are Zhodani and thus learn it as their first and native language. The story of its genesis begins in the period after the Dzaqtas some 6,000 Standard years ago on pre-interstellar Zhdant, the Zhodani homeworld. The Dzaqtas, a horrible plague that afflicted inhabitants of Zhdant and entirely exterminated the native Chirper populations on Zhdant and its moon Viepchakl, reduced the Human population of Zhdant by nearly nine-tenths and nearly ended technic civilization on the world. It took a millennium before the Zhodani were able to re-establish a technological civilization, unify their society, and once more return to space.

Two factors enabled the Zhodani to eventually rebuild and come out of their 'Second Dark Age': the development of Psionics and the establishment of a common language - Zdetl - for their newly unified society. These two developments came about together, if independently of one another, and both have served as the foundation of Consulate society into the Space Travel and then the successive Jump Drive era of expansion into Charted Space.

Foreword to Beginning Zdetl

The homogenous nature of Consulate civilization would not have been possible without both Psionics and Zdetl, each of which has ensured the unbroken existence of their hegemony across the eleven sectors of Charted Space (and the long corridor towards the Galactic Core) in which it exists. Understanding the Consulate is not possible without examining both phenomena, and Zdetl is key to understanding its people, their society, and its organizations. In many ways, as with any sophont civilization, language IS society.

Introduction

Zdetl is the official language of the Zhodani Consulate in the age of the Third Imperium. While its precise origins are unknown, it is commonly accepted that it developed in the wake of what is today known as the Final War when the surviving humans on Zhdant found themselves bereft of their alien masters. Over the millennia, Zdetl gradually evolved into its modern form and was universally adopted as the official language in the 300th Teqozdij of the Driantia Zhdantia, equivalent to Imperial year -6055.

A distinguishing feature of modern Zdetl is its emphasis on standardization in morphology, grammar, syntax and structure. Zhodani culture is fundamentally assimilative in nature; in other words, the Consulate is not interested in conquest by force but rather by acculturation. To this end, the Consular official language has been regularized over time to make it easy to teach and learn, or at least less difficult than other languages are. This does not mean Zdetl lacks complexity - like the ancient Terran game of Go, its fundamentals can be learned in minutes, but it can take a lifetime of study and practice to truly master.

Spelling, Pronunciation, and Accent

Words in Zdetl have been standardized in spelling and pronunciation and are phonetic in nature. Each of the major phonemes has a single letter symbol, called tlatoni (タルトノイ) associated with it, and each tlatoni has one sound. There are no silent letters. If a phoneme is unvoiced, it is not written.

Vowels

The Zdetl vowels are A, E, I, IA, IE, O, and Ŕ. Each has a unique sound and all are pronounced consistently regardless of where they appear.

父	A as in father , never as in pale
児	E as in get or let , never as in pier
人	I as in kit , never as in mile
牙	IA as in yaweh
エ	IE as in layer
ウ	O as in go
ル	Ŕ is a throaty “r” sound, almost unvoiced like the “r” in work . This sound can be challenging to learn and recognized in Anglicized Zdetl; students should practice saying it often. It will be noted in the text as Ŕ where needed.

Don't make the vowel sounds too long. Each vowel should be pronounced as clearly and as purely as possible.

Introduction

Consonants

The consonant phonemes in Zdetl are: B, BL, BR, CH, CHT, D, DL, DR, F, FL, FR, J, JD, K, KL, KR, L, M, N, NCH, NJ, NS, NSH, NT, NTS, NZ, NZH, P, PL, PR, Q, QL, QR, R, S, SH, SHT, T, TS, TL, V, VL, VR, Y, Z, ZD, ZH, and ZHD. As stated previously, each consonant sound has one tlatoni and one sound only. Try to pronounce each consonant as clearly as possible. This will get easier with practice. Review the table of consonants on page vi.

Syllable Structures and Accentuation

In Zdetl, words are constructed in sets of syllables that follow consistent patterns. These can take the form of a single vowel (V), a consonant followed by a vowel (CV), a vowel followed by a consonant (VC), or a vowel between an initial and a final consonant (CVC). When spoken, words are always accented on the penultimate (second-to-last) syllable, or in the case of two-syllable words, on the final syllable. Because it can be difficult to clearly identify syllable breaks in the Anglicized transliteration of Zdetl, students should familiarize themselves with the Zdetl tlatoni as shown in the previous tables.

Practice reading and saying the following words to familiarize yourself with pronunciation.

Atrint	අත්රින්ත	At-rint - “raining”, the wet season following the winter thaw
Vrienstrial	ව්‍රීන්ස්ට්‍යාලි	Vrien-stial - “heat”, the warm summer season

Ashtiavl	අස්ත්‍යාව්ල	Asht-iavl - “chill”, the winter season
Atpiapr	අත්පියාප්‍ර	At-piapr - “thaw”, the spring season when winter's chill wanes and the weather becomes warmer
Zhant'ad	ඇංත්‍යාද	Zhant'ad - commoner; the lowest class of citizen in the Zhodani Consulate
Dlenchiepr	ඇල්න්ඩ්‍යාප්‍ර	Dlench-iepr - intendant; the lowest rank of nobility
Zhobrdievil	ඇංඩ්‍රුඩ්‍යාව්ල	Zhobr-dievil - noble; the ruling class in Zhodani society
Pranatl	ප්‍රාන්තාත්ත	Pra-natl - “aspirant”, the lowest rank of nobility, equivalent to a Knight in the Imperium
Jdistebr	ඇංඩ්‍රුඩ්‍යාඩ්බර්	Jdi-stebr - “wellborn”, the second rank of nobility, equivalent to a Baron in the Imperium
Viestlas	විස්‍ට්‍යාල්ස	Vies-tlas - “highborn”, the third rank of nobility, equivalent to an Imperial Marquis
Zhobrtlasche	ඇංඩ්‍රුඩ්‍යාල්ස්චේ	Zhobr-tlas-che - “noble born”, the second highest rank of nobility, equivalent to an Imperial Count
Preblshienchiashav	ප්‍රෙබ්ල්‍යාඩ්‍යාන්ඩ්‍යාෂාව	Prebl-shiench-ia-shav - “princely born”, the highest rank of nobility in the Consulate, equivalent to an Imperial Duke

Introduction

Note the placement of the accent in longer words. Zdetl makes extensive use of compound words composed of two, three or more words appended together. This can subtly change the pronunciation and accentuation of the root and sub-words, so study the Zdetl carefully to identify syllable breaks. Becoming familiar with the tlatoniedl (タラトニアズル) or alphabet is critical

Nenjchinzhe'driante ナセロ王人々ヨセラスアセ Nenj'chin-zhe'-driant-e - "Consular Legion of Merit", the highest military honor bestowed on a Zhodani citizen to understanding how to pronounce Zetl words and sentences.

A Note on Word Construction

Students will note that Zdetl makes extensive use of complex word constructions. In many cases, a single word composed of one or more root words and appended suffixes and prefixes can convey as much meaning as an entire sentence in Anglic. Adjectives, nouns, and verbs are often combined into single complex word forms.

Consider the following:

vlezhdaf (バセヨアス) - vlezhd (star) + -af (yonder, afar); "yonder star" vlezhdatlishaf (バセヨアスと人土アス) - vlezhd (star) + atl (lord) + ish (our) + af (yonder); our Star Lord-class cruiser over there/yonder shivvajdatl (土人アマガルアス) - shiv (moon) + va (to shine) + jdatl (mountains); the Mountains of Moonlight, a mountain range on Qiknavra

These constructions can become quite complex and convey subtle meanings:

dlenchieprzinichpatlasdish (ビセマヌコノアヌ王アスとアス土アス) - dlenchiepr (intendant) + zin (child) + ichpa (new) + tlas (superlative) + dish (our); our newest intendant child

Students are encouraged to study these word constructions and parse them carefully in order to understand them.

Punctuation

Beginning Zdetl did not include any discussion of punctuation in Zdetl, because such markings had not been clearly identified at the time. In this volume you will see a variety of symbols that serve similar functions to those used in Anglic:

Zdetl	Anglic	Usage
*	.	Full stop, indicates the end of a sentence.
,	,	Comma, indicates a subordinate clause.
//	!	Exclamation marking.
/	?	Question mark, usually emphasizes interrogatives.
'	"	Quotation, used to indicate speech.
:	:	Colon, emphasizes a concept.

pala

Note the lack of honorifics in this exchange. The two individuals meeting are both zhant'ad (ゾハタアド) or proles, the commoners of Zhodani society; this is also apparent from the fact that both have two names, a family name and a personal name. Among the zhant'ad, relative social status has little meaning as all are considered equals. Were one of them a dlenchiepr (ダレンチエル) Intendant or zhobrdievl (ゾボルディエル) Noble, the zhant'ad would address the superior by his social rank. In any meeting between Zhodani of different class, each addresses the other by their title (and name, if necessary).

Noble Title	Meaning	Suffix added to name
ダレンチエル	Dlenchiepr	-iepr (エル)
アスピラン	Pranatl	-atl (アト)
ウェルボーン	Jdistebr	-stebr (ルベル)
ハイバーン	Viestlas	-tlas (ハイバ)
ゾボルトスラッシュ	Zhobrtlasche'	-tlasche (ゾボルトスラッシュ)
プレーブルシニヤシハヴ	Preblsheniashav	-iashav (アバブリ)

Intendants and Nobles have only one name with a suffix appended to indicate social status. A noble's clothing and accoutrements often indicate his or her social status. Titles are generally hereditary; a child born to Viestlas parents inherits the family's title regardless of Psionic ability. Zhant'ad who show high psionic ability are elevated to dlenchiepr status and may rise through the ranks of nobility if they show the skill and aptitude for the responsibilities.

Yekta chapani and chapanitlasche are both formal salutations that can be used when addressing either groups or individuals; the former is more casual while the latter might be used when one is in a particularly good mood that day. Note the addition of the suffix -tlasche (for Noble Born), in this case used as a superlative mood modifier.

Greetings are often accompanied by a polite bow from the waist, and possibly pressing the palms of the hands together or extending the arms to the sides with the hands open and palms outward. Local customs may vary. Handshakes are unknown in the Zhodani Consulate.

Fliedio'daqle (フリエイドダクル) is another formal polite greeting that means “Are you in harmony?” It refers to the three aspects of being, body, mind and spirit. The traditional response is fliedik (フリエイディク), “It is harmonious with me.” Since dishonesty is all but unknown in Zhodani society, the response (unless one is actually feeling harmonious) might reflect how the person is actually feeling.

Exercises (Ajozdarad)

1. You meet a person you've never seen before. How do you greet them?
2. How do you say How are you?
3. How would you say I am well, thank you?
4. How would you wish someone good day?
5. As a zhant'ad, how would you greet a wellborn?

pala

6. Introduce yourself in Zdetl. (Don't worry about translating your name)
7. Ask another person where are you from?
8. Bid another person farewell.
9. Say farewell to a group.
10. Ask a group of people how are you?

Other Greetings and Responses

Because it would be considered dishonest (and therefore rude and possibly indicative of mental distress) to respond to fledo'daqle in the affirmative when one is not feeling well, other polite responses relate to how one might be feeling at the time. These correspond to three aspects of being - the physical, the spiritual, and the mental. Thus, if one is not feeling well physically, the response might be Qlie fliedik. Chaktopkenzh zdinzhbaik.

չ գալիշ* արշարժեած օխուռշ*
I am not harmonious. Unwell is my stomach.

If one were feeling mentally unbalanced, the response might be more nuanced:

Qlie fliedik. Tlakitzdievlik.
չ գալիշ* ուշակովազ*
I am disharmonious. Nostalgic (am I).

For our purposes in this chapter, however, the simple Fliedik will suffice.

Nouns, Singular and Plural

Nouns in Zdetl can often (but not always) be identified by the ending -i. Plural forms of nouns are indicated by either stating the number of things if the quantity is known, or repeating the word for abstract quantities.

choqi	girl	choqi choqi	girls
ՉՈՂԻ	ԿԱՐԱ	ՉՈՂԻ ՉՈՂԻ
driefri	boy	kiachti driefri	six boys
ՃՐԵՒ	ԿԱՐԱ	ՃՐԵՒ ՃՐԵՒ
ibro	egg	chial ibro	One egg
ԻԲՌ	ԿԱՐԱ	ԻԲՌ ԿԱՐԱ

The plural suffix -o (Ռ) is also valid for abstract quantities; for example, choqi (ՉՈՂԻ) becomes choqio (ՉՈՂԾՆՌ) for girls. In conversational Zdetl this form is rarely used except for abstract quantities, however, as adding the ending is seen as unnecessary (saying "klachti driefri" is as clearly understood as is "kliachti driefrio").

Vocabulary (Tlatoniatl ilnamia)

-ach	ア王	diminutive; small

Numbers (Patlani)

Learn the numbers in Zdetl.

1	∟	chial	王ス𠂔
2	𠂔	omei	𠂔セ七八人
3	𠂔	teqo or tyei	𠂔セ𠂔 : 𠂔セ𠂔
4	六	nachoie	アズ王𠂔
5	ナ	machieli	アズ王アズ人
6	#	kiachti	ズス王人
7	匁	komi	ズルズ人
8	▽	koe	ズル
9	𠂔	kona	ズルアズ
10	∟□	matlapa	アズビアズアズ

The number three has cultural significance to the Zhodani and has two forms as shown above. Teqo (𠂔セ𠂔) appears in several important words associated with holidays and major events and is usually used in those contexts:

teqozdij	𠂔セ𠂔コズジ	A period of three years; often mistranslated as “Olympiad”
teqozastial	𠂔セ𠂔コズ士アズ	“Teqozdij Day”, a holiday added every three years to mark the new Teqozdij
teqozdievl	𠂔セ𠂔コズヂ	The Psionic Games, a major societal event that happens every third teqozdij

Larger numbers are formed by compounding the numerical words:

11	∟∟	matlapachial	アズビアズアズ王ス𠂔
12	∟𠂔	matlapaomei	アズビアズアズアズ七八人
13	∟𠂔	matlapatyei	アズビアズアズアズ七八人
14	∟六	matapanachoie	アズビアズアズアズ王𠂔
20	𠂔□	omeimatlapa	アズ七八人アズビアズアズ

Multiples of ten are formed by appending the ordinal number as a prefix to matlapa.

As in many Terran languages, certain large numbers like thousand, million, and billion have unique names:

∟□□	matlaiepr	アズビアズアズ
∟□□□	matlapatl	アズビアズアズアズ
∟□□□□□	matlapatlas	アズビアズアズアズアズ
∟□□□□□□□	matlapatlasche	アズビアズアズアズアズアズ

Compound numbers like 1,310,234 are created by simply combining the words together in sequence from left to right.

The Definite Article

In Zdetl, when referring to a specific item, event, or person, the definite article ke (Ζχ) is sometimes used. There is no indefinite article.

Pronouns (Tetlas)

The most commonly used pronouns in Zdetl are:

Person	Singular	Plural	Possessive/indicative suffix
1st	ze (Ζχ) - I, me	de (Δχ) - we	-ik / -(d)ish (εχ . εχιτ)
2nd	ve (Βχ) - you	le (Λχ) - y'all	-o'd (εχ ^ Δ)
3rd	se (Σχ) - he/she/it	ye (Υχ) - they, them	-ens (εχ)}

Note that third person pronouns have no gendered forms in Zdetl. The third person pronoun se (Σχ) is used for all genders.

The possessive/indicative suffix is used interchangeably to show either the actor in a sentence when attached to a verb, or to show the owner of an object when attached to a noun.

In many cases, the pronoun is actually not used in favor of appending a suffix. For example, instead of:

Faeia ve? (What is your name?)

One could say instead:

Fao'daqle? (What name do you have?)

And when referring to another person:

Faens _____. (Their name is ____)

In the first example, fae` (εχεχ), to be named, is a verb taking the present tense form fiaeia (εχεχε), and in the second, the noun fae (εχεχ), name, is modified by the second person possessive suffix -o'd to make it fao'o'd (εχεχεχ ^ Δ). The suffix -aqle (εχεχεχ) makes the sentence interrogative.

Exercises (Ajozdarad)

1. Introduce yourself by name.
2. How many people are in your family? Answer in Zdetl.
3. Give your age in Zdetl.
4. Introduce someone else by name.
5. Give the possessive forms of some of the nouns.

Asking Questions

Questions or interrogatives in Zdetl are indicated in two ways. The first has been covered in Beginning Zdetl and is the question word jdo (δχ), which precedes any statement the speaker wishes to make a question. The second has been introduced in this chapter and is the suffix -aqle (εχεχεχ) added to the root word.

pala

This makes questions in Zdetl very clear. In Anglic and other Terran languages, questions are often indicated by a rising shift in vocal tone at the end of the sentence, and in written form indicated by the ? symbol. In Zdetl, the presence of the question word or suffix makes clear that the phrase is interrogative in nature.

Verbs: The Present Tense

Verbs in the present tense are formed by adding either the suffix -ia (爻) or by appending the possessive suffix to indicate ownership of the action, either of which have the equivalent Anglic function of -ing. They are attached to the verb being modified. This is called the present aspect.

In Zdetl, the same verb form is used whether you wish to say "I am ___ing" or "I (verb)":

Ze mochitia.	I am reading (I read).
コセ フル王人く凡*
Mochitik.	I am reading (I read).
フル王人く人ニ*
Se kotozhia.	He/she/it is sitting (sits).
上セ グルく凡ヨス*
Kotozhens.	He/she/it is sitting (sits).
グルく凡ヨセ凸*

For the present participle form of a verb, the suffix -enzh (セヲ) is applied to the root. This is used whenever the action is happening but in the abstract, as in flowing water or falling rain or blowing wind. In these cases, there is action happening, but the actor is not "owning" the action.

It also is used in passive participial phrases like "sitting, I am reading a book." It's clear that the actor is the one doing the sitting, but the action they "own" is the reading. In Zdetl, this sentence reads:

グルく凡ヨセス. ハタマズス フル王人く人ニ*

Kotozenzh, fevranzh mochitik.

sit-PRESENT PARTICIPLE, book reading-PRESENT-I.

Note the difference in endings used on kotozhie` and mochitie`. The participial form is also used when the verb is being used descriptively:

アヘムセコセラ 土メタ人
Nilozenzh shtiefri
(A) speaking man

フル王セラ 王人く凡セラタナヘコヒ人
Kochenzh chikakenmiztli
Sleeping cat

クレセラ ハリスアセラ コメア
Tyeii olianenzh zin
Three swimming children

pala

And when the verb is used as a noun:

Үکәңлә 土スタセ
Yekta shtiavenzh
Good thinking

2. The children are eating.
3. Mary eats five eggs.
4. There are six cats (chikakenmiztli).
5. John and Mary have eight children.
6. Is John reading or writing?

Teleport Commandoes - Koetsiakotznad (コエシアクオタズナド)

Highly mobile and effective, feared even among the ranks of their fellow Psionic Commandoes, the teleport troops are capable of crossing distances of many kilometers in the blink of an eye to infiltrate enemy ranks to wreak havoc. With specialized drugs, the most highly trained can even flit into enemy ships to plant breaching charges or sabotage major systems before being detected. They almost always go lightly armed, carrying axes or blades for hand to hand combat and light gauss weapons or micro grenade launchers. Teleportation tactics emphasize mobility and inflicting as much damage as possible as quickly as possible.

Culture: Zhodani Home Life

The Clan House (Kenkalitzi)

Nearly all Zhodani, from the lowest of proles (zhant'ad, ڦڌٽٽٽٰد) to the highest ranking of the nobility (zdoibrdievl, ڦڌٽٽٽٰرڊيٽل), live in some kind of communal dwelling. The design and composition of these multi-family homes varies according to environment, availability of resources, social class, and other factors, but in general, they all serve the same purpose - to provide shelter, employment, and education to those who share the space. The word itzi (ㅅㅋㅋ) loosely translates to “home”, but it can also mean “place of refuge.” Kenkali (ڦڪالِي), introduced in this chapter as “family,” more precisely translates to “clan” and is often used to refer to a large group of adults who share similar or related skills. Thus, the Kenkali Tliaqrnad (ڦڪالِي تلِاڳرناڊ) is the zhant'ad clan responsible for tending the fields and maintaining the crops. Other kenkali include:

Yotlekemetnad	ڦڌٽٽٰٽٽٰٽٽٰٽٽٰٽٽٰ	“Smith”
Kliazhnamachrnad	ڦڌٽٽٰٽٽٰٽٽٰٽٽٰٽٽٰ	“Plumber”
Kloriemnad	ڦڌٽٽٰٽٽٰٽٽٰ	“Programmer”
Kotzpialinad	ڦڌٽٽٰٽٽٰٽٽٰ	“Fisher”
Tlamad	ڦڌٽٽٰ	“Doctor”
Tilman	ڦڌٽٰ	“Taylor”

Other kenkali names, particularly modern names, are derived from locations (with the suffix -qaf) and places of origin and may include elements describing professions related to those place names.

Kenkali names are only used by adults of the zhant'ad class, and those names are either chosen or assigned once a child reaches the age of adulthood, typically around their sixth teqozdij (age 18). Until then, the child's job is to learn and develop the knowledge and skills needed to carry out the duties and functions expected by the kenkali.

A child found to have the requisite psionic ability is immediately transferred from the zhant'ad clan to a dlenchiepr family and takes on the suffix -iepr instead of choosing a kenkali name. Because psionic ability can manifest even later in life, an adult so identified will immediately be promoted to dlenchiepr and drop the zhant'ad name.

The Bath Hall (Kalipakipria)

The central feature of every Zhodani itzi (イチゴン) is the bath hall, or kalipakipria (カリパキアリヤス). This is more than a place to get clean - it's where all the important business of the kenkali (ケンカリ) is conducted, trade and other negotiations between kenkali happen, and where visitors and guests are welcomed to the itzi.

Every visitor or guest, regardless of rank, is invited (in some cases expected) to take part in the kazkalipakik (カズカズリヤスルカズル) or bathing ritual. This custom dates back thousands of years, possibly even to the time before the Dzaqtlas (ドコタルダス), and can be as simple as washing one's hands and feet for short visits or as long as a full body cleansing followed by a relaxing time in the vrienkalipaki (ブリエンカズリヤスルアツシ) hot bath to discuss business or share news.

The Zhodani are rarely in such a hurry as to skip the ritual baths. Indeed, foreigners privileged enough to be invited to a Zhodani kenkalitzi (ケンカリチ) clan home might come away with the false impression that they spend most of their time relaxing in warm water. This is far from true, of course, but the kazkalipakik is so integral to Zhodani life that even the lowliest of zhant'ad expect and are afforded time for it during their daily routine.

Surrounding the vrienkalipaki are lounge chairs, recliners, terminals for study, reading, or catching up on the day's news. Residents and guests may also partake of food prepared in nearby ichtipria (イチトリヤス) cooking spaces or kitchens.

The Gardens (Zhochtlipria)

The food served in the kalipakipria is usually fresh fruits or vegetables grown in the nearby zhochtlipria (ゾウチトリヤス) garden space, cakes either imported or made from surplus grains either grown on site (in the case of the Kenkalitzi Tliaqrnad (ケンカリチ リアクナド) クルセラル), or sometimes fresh seafood. The exact nature of the food depends on the location of the kenkalitzi, its resources, and the function of the kenkali.

The zhochtlipria are traditionally tended by older children and overseen by zhant'ad adults of retirement age. These zhochtlinad (ゾウチトリニアド) thus continue their service to the kenkali by passing knowledge on to the next generations while performing a vital duty to their clan.

These gardens are not merely for growing food, however. Like many public spaces in Zhodani society, they serve a multifaceted purpose. Spaces for meditation, contemplation, casual meetings, and game play are typically scattered throughout the grounds, providing visitors and residents with a place that nourishes the body, mind and spirit.

The Creches, Schools, Living, and Work Spaces

Beyond the kalipakipria and zhochtlipria are the spaces and buildings set aside for the true work of the kenkali. Here is where the zintikipria (ゾンティクリア) creches, the koatlipria (コアトリア) work spaces, zhdatlipria (ゾダトリア) schools, and kotozhiepri (コトシエプリ) living spaces can be found.

The zintikipria is where children are cared for from infancy until their first teqozdij (チコジル) or third birthday. At that point, the child is moved out of the zintikipria and into the kotozhiepri communal living space. Adults of the kenkali are expected to participate in child raising, and many (such as Ikan and Nor Tliaqrnad) choose to form partnerships (nam) and share the work.

The kotozhiepri is akin to the longhouses of the North American Iroquois nations on ancient Terra. A typical kotozhiepri houses a few dozen adults of working age and two or three times as many children from their first teqozdij to their sixth, at which point they have either been identified as having psionic potential and adopted to a Dlenchiepr (ドレンチエプリ) Intendant family or have joined a clan as a full zhant'ad laborer.

Every kenkali performs work essential to the functioning and maintenance of a Zdobrdievl (ゾドブルディーブル) noble estate. This work is done in the koatlipria (コアトリア) or work spaces. The form of the koatlipria depends on the skill set of the kenkali; the Kenkali Tliaqrnad koatlipria would be fields and farms; the Kenkali Yotlkemetnad koatlipria would be the estate's vehicle garages and possibly other heavy machinery; the Kenkali Kliazhnamachrnad koatlipria would be the water filtration and purification plants. These facilities are not always near the actual kotozhiepri of any of the individual kenkali.

The zhdatlipria is where all education and training is done. For children this means basic early childhood and secondary learning; children are tested throughout their development by Dlenchiepr attached to the ZdobrdievI estate to determine their possible psionic ability and specific skill aptitudes. For adults of the kenkali, education is all about building and maintaining the kinds of skills expected and needed to be a productive contributor to the kenkali (and by extension, the Consulate).

Mealtimes and Times of the Day

Compared to some human cultures, the Zhodani eat quite frequently, as many as six or more times each day. The standard day on Zhdant is 27 standard hours, divided locally into 30 equal units called achan (ア王アア). Mealtimes mainly take place during the daylight hours.

Pliebraits ズトスルズム	sunrise	Early to mid-morning
Chapani ズラズラズム	morning	Between sunrise and noon
Stialchali スラスラスム	noon	The 15 th hour of the day
Tlacha ズタズタ	afternoon	Between noon and sunset

Tlatso ズズ	pre-midnight	Between sunset and midnight
Teyochali ズツルズム	midnight	The 30 th or zero hour
Chikani ズムズム	pre-sunrise	Between midnight and sunrise

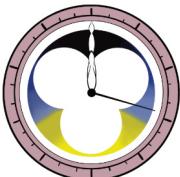

Daytime, the daylight hours between sunrise and sunset, is usually called stial (スラス) and nighttime, between sunset and sunrise, is teyo (ズツル).

Vocabulary: meals (Tlatoniatl ilnamia: tlakopali)

The following illustrations show a typical Zhodani clock featuring three hands of varying sizes for counting the seconds (zhinzh 真メズ), minutes (pitlik ピトリク), and hours (achan アチヤア). The outer colored ring indicates the portion of the day or tyeiaji (ヒヤツアヒヤ), also known as third, and it rotates once per day. The clock face itself is divided into ten achan, numbered from 1 to 10 counting spinward (clockwise).

Modern digital clocks mark the time more granularly, having a sequence of four numbers indicating the tyeiaji, achan, pitlik and zhinzh in order and indicating the time of sunrise and sunset and possibly, the current weather. However, for aesthetic reasons most Zhodani prefer the analog variety.

The times of actual sunrise and sunset are, of course, flexible and depend on the latitude of the observer; the names are often used simply to mark the transitions between the tyeiaji.

Adjectives and Adjectival Suffixes

Adjectives (zarfozad, コヌヌヌヌコヌル) are words that describe nouns. In Zdtl, adjectives can take the form of either independent words or adjectival suffixes appended to a noun. The only functional difference is in the application.

Some common adjectives include the following (you have already seen some in the previous lesson).

-ach	アヌ	small; diminutive	-med	アヌセム	clean
-davr	アヌヌ	new	-qapl	アヌヌク	fresh
-dro	アヌ	bright	-shte	アヌセ	fast

tlakolepriazaf

This is by no means an exhaustive list; indeed, there are thousands more adjectives in Zdetl, a few of which will be covered in this book. As mentioned earlier, adjectives can be used either independently or as affixes to other words. For example, in the question Medaqle?

መዳቂለ
Is it clean?

Uses the unitary adjectival form of med while appending the question indicator -aqle to it as the root. However, if one were describing a specific item that was clean, the suffix -med is applied to the root:

Stamed.

Exercises (Ajozdarad)

Translate from Zdetl to Anglic:

1. Qaplaqle ke noql?
 2. Kafi ashtiabl.
 3. Pliebrimanipali iqik? Tekicholik!

 2. I would like hot coffee and fresh fruit.
 3. I want spicy food, please.
 4. She wants a sweet pastry and coffee.

Negative Constructions

To make a sentence negative, the word qlie (៥៥) is added at the beginning:

Talqi chteno'd?
 ተልጊዥ ዲትኝዎል?
 Do you want fruit?

Qlie talqi chtenzik.
 የቅለ ተልጊዥ ዲትኝዎን.
 No, I do not want fruit.

Exercises (Ajozdarad)

Give the negative forms of the following sentences, then translate:

1. Talqi iazh kafi chtenzik.
2. Kaqik.
3. Tekicholo'd.
4. Tekicholik, qlie iapanik.
5. Abrrstia talkiens.

Translate, then answer the following questions in the negative.

1. Do you want to eat spicy chicken?
2. Would Kieko like some fruit?
3. Is Velma drinking wine?
4. Is the cheese fresh?
5. Is the fruit spoiled?

Days of the Week

A week on zhdant consists of five days named as follows:

Third day (teqostial) is usually a break day.

In addition to the defined days of the week, Zdetl also has the following independent time adverbs:

Chistial	ቍሁታዥ	First day
Omeistial	ይኖራሱታዥ	Second day
Teqostial	፳ት፻ይታዥ	Third day
Nachostial	፳፻፻፻ታዥ	Fourth day

The Future and Past Tense (cthenz-, daz-)

Actions or events that take place in an upcoming time are expressed using the future tense. In Zdetl, the aspect indicator construction cthenzenzh (王セテンツ) is appended following the verb, as seen in the chapter dialogue:

Ittel pleshqleo'daqle chtenzenzh?
入セセト パレホレダクルダクル 王セテンツ/

This roughly translates into Anglic thusly:

What (item) request-you-question will-doing?

Similarly, the past tense (an action that has already happened) is indicated by the aspect indicator construction dazej (アラコセル):

Aepreο'daqle dazej?
アエラルセルダクルダクル アラコセル/

Taste-you-question did? (Have you tasted (it)?)

This example is the past perfective, indicating an action that has already been completed. In both cases, the aspect indicator word follows the verb.

Both indicators are actually composed of a prefix and a suffix:

cthenz - future or potential aspect daz - past or completed
-enzh - participle ending (-ing)
-ej - perfective ending (-ed)

These can be combined in any of the following forms as needed:

cthenzenzh - future participle (will be doing, will do) cthenzej - future perfective (will have done) dazenzh - past participle (was doing) dazej - past perfective (did, done)

Exercises (Ajozdarad)

1. In the morning we will eat eggs and bacon.
2. We ate chicken curry yesterday.
3. What will be for lunch?
4. Where (izhia) will we have tea?
5. What did you eat for second breakfast?

Culture: Zhodani Diet and Cuisine

Dietary Needs

The Zhodani are biologically human, so their dietary needs are similar to the other branches of humanity throughout the galaxy, with the expected varieties of chekste (չէշտէ) protein, chtedre (չէդրէ) carbohydrates, ster (չէֆ) fats and lipids, vitamins and amino acids. Their actual diet shows significant differences in the structure and composition of these nutrients, however. The flora and fauna native to their home planet of Zhdant have unique amino acids and proteins that are indigestible to non-native species. The Zhodani have, through evolutionary natural selection (and possible genetic modification) developed the ability to process these local proteins and modern Zhodani have no trouble eating local foods.

The bulk of the Zhodani diet comes from the ocean. Nearly half of the land surface of Zhdant is either non-arable desert; the rest is rugged mountains containing tropical and temperate forests. Farming (tlatezhdievras,

Large-scale ranching is virtually nonexistent on Zhdant; there are few species of terrestrial creatures larger than a few hundred kg in mass and no large herds of native livestock; however, several species of land animals are raised for their meat, milk, eggs and hide.

Eating Patterns

As we have seen in the previous lesson, Zhodani eating habits are different from those of other branches of humanity. Instead of consuming a few large meals, they prefer to eat several smaller portions throughout their day, typically eating six to seven times daily, thus maintaining a steady flow of nutrients to keep up energy and good mental and physical health. The composition of these meals varies depending on the time of day.

The Morning Meal (Pliebraitspali)

Pliebraitspali (Плебрайтспали) or morning meal, is the first meal of the day and usually is held either at dawn (pliebraits, Pliebr's Arrival) or the fifth hour of the morning third of the day. A typical pliebratispali meal consists of grilled vegetables, grain or grain cakes, fruits, and a soup made from a light broth. It is usually accompanied by kafi (Кафи), a beverage made from a local plant with stimulant properties. This is a light but high energy meal meant to provide calories for the first daily ten-hour work period.

zamoli	Замоли	broth
tlonqili	Тлончили	vegetables
talqi	Талчи	fruit
kans	Канс	a rice analogue grain

The Noon Meal (Stialchalipali)

The second major meal of the day is stialchalipali (士ヌルアリスルヌル人) or noon meal, which is held at hour 15, the fifth hour of the midday third. This is a slightly more elaborate affair than the pliebraitspali and features large quantities of noodles, either sautéed or in soup, meat skewers of abbrstia or kredl, fish, and fresh or stir-fried vegetables. This meal is also a much more social event, usually lasting up to two hours, during which the participants discuss the day's business, local news, or any other important (or trivial) topic that comes up. Stialchalipali is also a good time for making business arrangements, proposals, and contracts. It is always preceded by a visit to the kalipakipria.

ibro	人𠂇	egg
abbrstozh	ㄔ人𠂇士𠂇	abbrstia meat
fozhqro	ㄔ𠂇𠂇	a spicy blend of pickled vegetables, fish and shellfish

Evening Meal (Pliebrimanipali)

Pliebrimanipali (汎人𠂇人𠂇人𠂇人) or evening meal is traditionally the last full meal of the day. It occurs at sunset (pliebrimani, Pliebr's departure) or around the 25th hour, depending on the latitude and season. This is always a relaxed, drawn out event, usually lasting well into the evening as people come and go from the kotozhiepria. For those working the night shift, it may mark the beginning of their work day; for others, it's the end, but in any case pliebrimanipali is an important time for all to socialize and prepare for the evening. A typical pliebrimanipali features trays of fish, shellfish, meats, fruits, vegetables, cakes made from kans or other grains, noodles, soups, and wine or spirits, though the latter are usually reserved for holidays.

kliazh	ക്ലിജ്	water
etsashchrk	എസ്സാഷ്ക്രു	a soup made from vegetables, noql meat, and spicy peppers

Spices (Ajo)

Most Zhodani cuisine relies on extensive use of a rich palette of flavorful spices, many of which can be quite hot. This feature likely goes back to pre-

Dlolplikiajo	ഡല്പ്ലിക്കാജോ	a medium-hot spice blend originating from the capital region of Dlolpliki, commonly used on fish
Viepchaklajo	വിപ്പച്ചാക്കാജോ	a very hot spice blend made specifically from peppers and spices grown on Viepchakl
Qiknavrajo	കിക്നാവരാജോ	a hot blend made from plants found exclusively on Qiknavra, the smaller continent industrial times, when travellers crossing the Dlegjats high desert needed a way to transport food in a non-perishable form. Pickling and spicing is one of the earliest forms of food preservation that all human cultures develop, and the Zhodani are no exception. To visitors and non-natives, the experience can be overwhelming at first as the aroma of spice permeates virtually any public place, especially the kotozhiepria.

That said, Zhodani native cuisine is as varied as any other human society. Food items originating from the temperate zones tend to be less heavily tlatemo

spiced than those from desert regions, and the composition and type of spices used varies by region as well.

The suffixes most commonly used in Zdetl to name spices and spice blends are -chieli (王文丘人) and -ajo (アジョ). Spice blends are often named for the region they originate in, a practice not dissimilar to many Terran spices and masala.

Special Dietary Requirements

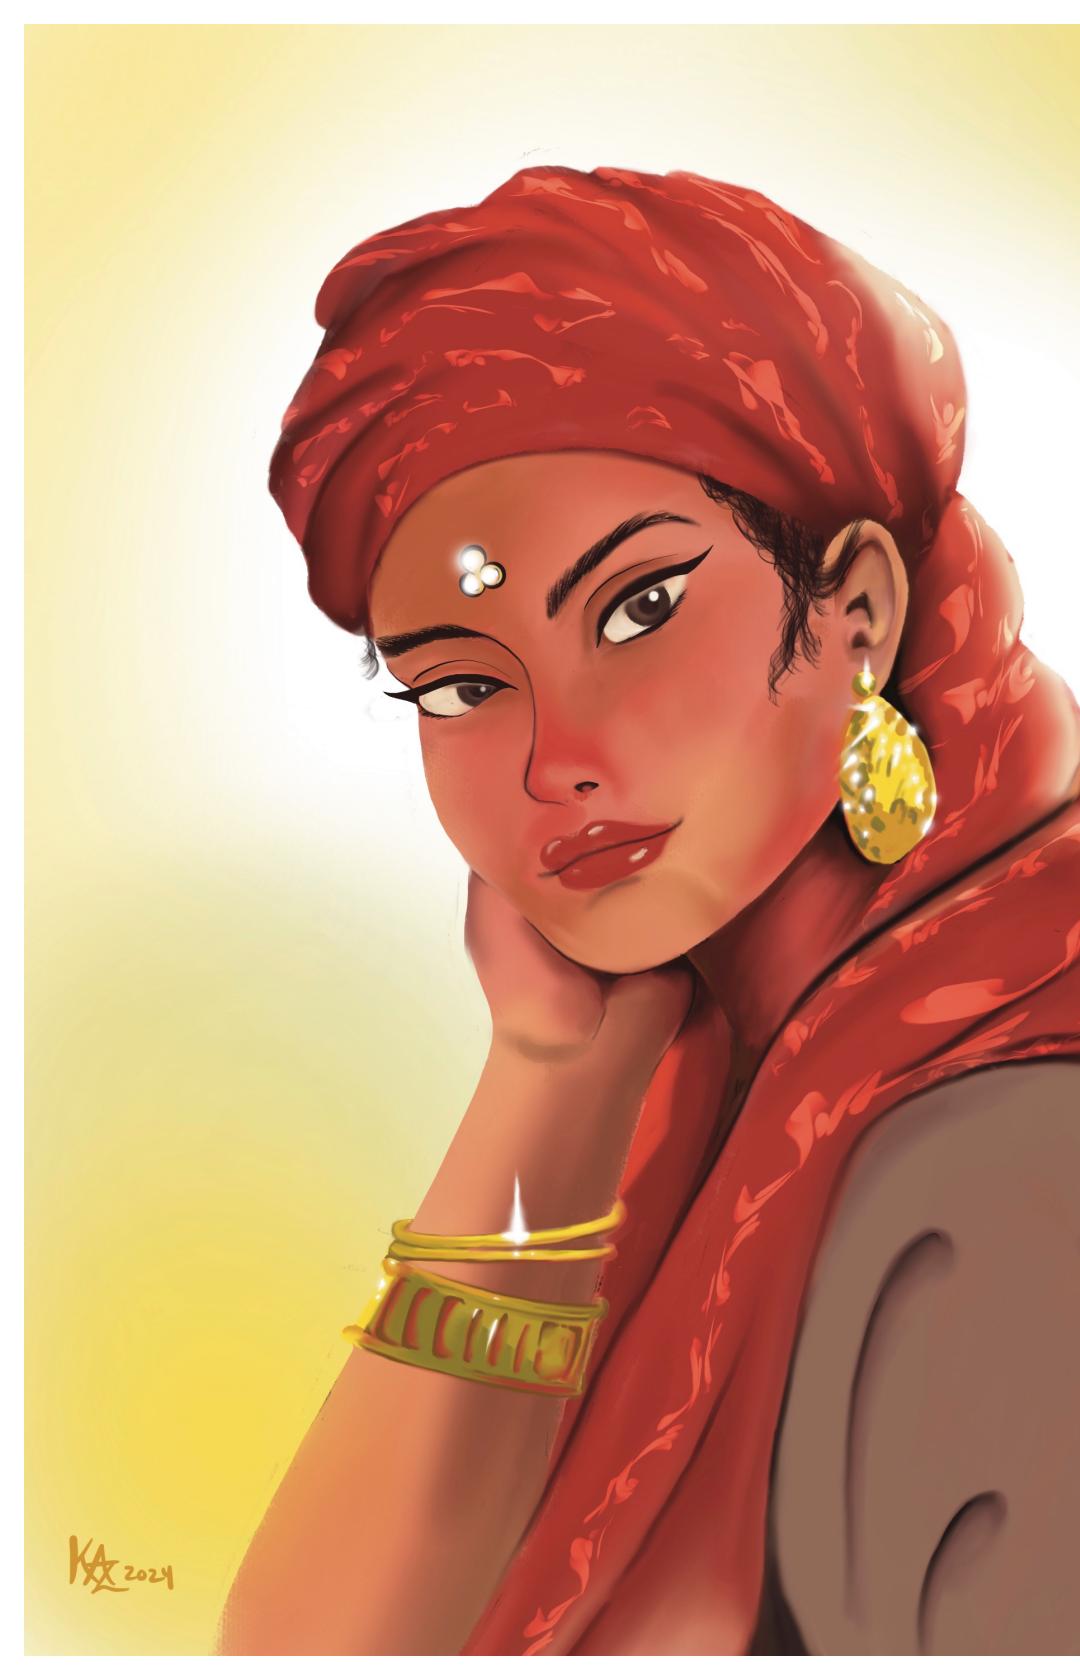

One unusual factor of Zhodani eating habits is the often very specific needs of the Zhobrdievl, the psionic Nobility. Psionic activity often requires increased caloric intake, and in varying proportions depending on the type of talent used. Teleportation, or koetsdievl, for example, requires a heavy load of carbohydrates and proteins to utilize effectively, while shadievl (telepathy) has much less intensive needs, mainly carbohydrates and electrolytes. The zhant'ad clans responsible for the culinary needs of the zhobrdievliitzi must be mindful of their superiors' needs at all times and adjust the composition and frequency of meals accordingly.

The Zhodani have a local equivalent of "sports drinks" designed specifically to help with recovering Psionic potential after intensive use of talents. One such drink high in sugars and amino acids is popular with koetsnad (teleportation specialists) is called Dizzenzh or "Jump Juice". It has also in high demand on some worlds near the Zhodani Frontier in the Tloql sector (AKA the Spinward Marches) as a mixer for alcoholic drinks.

Zhant'ad, of course, have much less specific dietary needs than the nobility does.

Telling time - hours, minutes, seconds

To ask what time it is in Zdetl, one of these questions is typically used:

Iqeza iqia achan?
イケザ イキア アchan/
Which is (the) hour?

or, alternatively (and somewhat less formally):

Achan aqle?
アchan アクル/
The hour?

lienzarchekriegrtia

To answer, one might express the time in terms of the hour and minute:

8:00	Koe (achan). カセ (ア王ア)*	(It's) the eighth hour.
8:10	Matlapa iepri koe. マタラパアリカセ カセ*	Ten past the eighth.
10:15	Matlapamachieli iepri matlapa. マタラパマチャエリアリマタラパ マタラパ*	Fifteen past the tenth.
12:20	Omeimatlapa iepri matlapaomei. オメイマタラパアリカセ カセ マタラパアリセイ*	Twenty past the twelfth.
	Matlapa tiech matlapatyei. マタラパアリチ カセ マタラパアリセイ*	Ten until the thirteenth.
15:00	Stialchali. シヤルチャリ*	Noon.
29:28	Omei tiech teyochali. オメイアリチ カセ シヤルチャリ*	Two minutes until midnight.

The word achan is often omitted when answering questions of time, just as it is in English ("What time is it?" "It's ten-fifteen.").

Remember also that there are 30 minutes (pitlik, ピトリク) in each standard Zhodani hour (achan, アーチャン). Note also that the suffix -aji (アソシ) with a number makes it a fractional expression:

omeiaji	𠂇セスル人	half
tyeiaji	𠂇セスル人	one third
nachoieaji	アハセスル人	one quarter
matlapaji	アハセスル人	one tenth
omei matlapaji	𠂇セスルアハセスル人	two tenths

The Zhodani will often divide their day into teqoaji or thirds (トセツルアズ) of ten achan each, much the same way Terrans use AM (ante meridiem) from midnight to noon and PM (post meridiem) from noon to midnight. These teqoaji are simply designated the first or chiala (王スルアズ), from midnight to hour 10; the second or omeia (ミダセズ), from hour 10 to hour 20; and the third or tyeia (クヒセズ), from hour 20 to midnight. Noon, as discussed previously, is marked at the fifth hour of the second third. Colloquially, they might also be named the chikania (王スルアズ), stialchalia (士スル王スルアズ), and tlatsoa (トアトアアズ) thirds of the day (morning, noontime, and night).

The following examples illustrate everyday use.

Hours 10 and 20 are simply named by their number.

Adverbs and adverbial constructions

Adverbs are words that describe a verb. They function the same as adjectives do for nouns, but are appended to the verb instead. Usually this takes the form of an adjectival suffix added to the verb, but can also appear as the adverbial suffix -vra (◀ズル):

Nearly any adjective can be made into an adverb in this way, though in actual usage some may appear cumbersome or sound strange.

shta	◀ズ	now	shtavra	◀ズルマジ	immediately
blefr	◀ズル	today	blefrvra	◀ズルマジ	by today
zeychim	◀ズル	soon	zeychimvra	◀ズルマジ	expeditely
shte	◀ズ	fast	shtevra	◀ズルマジ	rapidly
klie	◀ズ	slow	klievra	◀ズルマジ	slowly

When talking about the manner in which a thing is happening, or is being done, use the word iqenta (◀ズセラル):

lienzarchekrieqrtia
Iqenta zarensaqle?
人^レセ^タル^レコ^リサ^ケル^タ/
How (in what manner) are you travelling?

Iqenta nilozikaqle?
人^レセ^タル^レア^リソ^カク^タ/
How (in what manner) am I speaking?

The adverbial suffix can also be used to express a repeated action, event, or something that might happen on a schedule:

Pliebraitspali tlakoleo'd pliebraitsvra.
食^スト^リル^スと^リタ^リル^スと^リ食^スト^リル^スと^リタ^リル^ス*
We eat breakfast every morning.

Ke dlozhlienmiztlens draitse stialchalivra.

Culture: Travel

Migration and the ability to move from one place to another at will or need is a fundamental aspect of any human society. A zhant'ad commoner changing jobs might need to travel to another part of his homeworld, or to another world altogether; a dlenchiepr intendant might find herself reassigned to a different noble house upon being promoted; a zdobrdievI nobleman could reasonably expect to be reassigned to manage a fiefdom or corporation in a different sector. When it comes to local travel on a world, the Zhodani have developed a variety of technologies specific to the task.

Ground Travel (Oyanqad tatliash)

For thousands of years before widespread industrialization made heavy ground transport possible, travel by land on Zhdant was accomplished largely by caravans of small, hand drawn carts. Zhdant has few native creatures large enough to pull or carry heavy loads so migration and expansion was slow and painstaking even on good land.

The industrial age brought new methods of manufacturing and with it, the ability to transport goods across long distances. It took centuries for the Zhodani to open trade routes across the central Dleqiats Desert, but doing so enabled growth on a scale previously unheard-of in their history. The central desert hid vast stores of precious metals and rare earth resources that fueled their new Industrial Age.

On Zhdant, most land travel is still done via akopatlichA rail lines - public transit in Zhodani cities is excellent and few Zhodani feel the need to own personal vehicles. Such ownership is more common among the zdobrdievI and dlenchiepr, who have access to more resources than do the zhant'ad, who are only occasionally provided such luxuries.

akopatlichA アコパチカ	rail line; railroad
iadlajem アドライム	skycar (speeder)
tchipI チップ	a small robotaxi common on Zhdant
qietsfatli クイエツ・ファットリ	motorcycle (usually used for racing or fast attack)

Water Travel (Oyanqad kliaziash)

The kliazhatl oceans of Zhdant are nearly as treacherous as the land regions, due to the extreme tides imposed on them by the planet's large moon Viepchakl, but that did not stop the early Zhodani from braving them. In fact, ocean travel became an important mode of travel in the early days of expansion and migration and those early kliazhzarnad seafarers became known for their rugged and often savage nature.

Kliazhbaz pirates often preyed on coastal settlements and shipping in those early days. Such activities are unknown within the Consulate in modern times, but the Zhodani are not unfamiliar with the concept.

seafaring technology than sail and oar, but a significant amount of travel and trade still relies on watercraft as a relatively inexpensive and reliable method. Besides trade and travel, fishing remains a vital source of food production on Zhdant and the Zhodani have always been excellent stewards of the oceans.

Air Travel (Oyanqad lieniash)

The Zhodani developed the technology for powered flight much later in their history, relative to other branches of humanity. This is due in large part to the planet's thin atmosphere. Zhdant's atmospheric pressure at sea level is about half that of Terran standard, equivalent to an elevation of 5000 meters on Terra.

The first aircraft developed on Zhdant were lienmiztlenz lighter-than-air ships or more literally, gas riders. These used hydrogen and later, helium, to achieve lift, with propellers and eventually ducted fans for directional control. Even after the development of gravitic technology, lienmitlenz are still in widespread use on Zhdant and throughout the Consulate where atmospheric conditions allow.

The development of heavier-than-air flight eluded the Zhodani for much longer. The thin atmosphere (~532 mmHg at sea level) meant any powered aircraft had a significant deficit from the start. This didn't stop them from building first gliders and eventually powered aircraft capable of high-altitude, oyanqad

long distance flight. These were limited in cargo and passenger capacity, however, as most of the construction went to lift surfaces, engines, and fuel tankage.

Rotary-winged aircraft were never developed to any significant capability on Zhdant.

Gravitic Vehicles (Kitlaliadrayotl)

The discover and development of gravitic technology on Zhdant changed transportation and trade in unprecedented ways. The basic principles of zhendantras gravity, more generally, kitlaliadras, had been known and understood for thousands of years, but once the secret to controlling the forces of the universe were unlocked, life became easier for millions of Zhadani overnight. A new word - qliekitliadras antigravity - entered the popular vocabulary, and fast, efficient, and most importantly, safe transport of people and goods became possible worldwide.

The older forms of transportation are still used, particularly in situations where urgency is not a factor, and also because they tend to be less expensive and thus more affordable to the average zhant'ad or dlenchiepr than the faster, more high tech methods. Gravitic transport is mainly used for mass transit and large-scale transportation of goods; private ownership of vehicles is reserved mostly for the zdoberdievI nobility and those with consistent need.

Emotions (lolotlia)

Despite their reputation for being inscrutable and mysterious, the Zhodani, like any other branch of humaniti, are in fact a very emotinal people. They experiene the same range and variety of feelings as do the Vilani and Solomani; what distinguishes them from their human relatives is the degree of intensity that they allow themselves to express emotions. The Zhodani believe in balance between three aspects of existence - stietl (土木と) or body, zhatsi (ヨルヒと) or mind, and tavra (レルタラ) or spirit. Extreme emotion, while natural and expected, is also considered a sign of a disharmonious tavra. Disharmony in any of the three aspects of being can lead to poor health and disharmony in the others, and when an individual suffers, those around him can become fliedtiaql (リキドクスル), disharmonious. For this reason, the zdoberdievl take the emotional needs of the people under their command very seriously.

Expressing emotion in Zdetl may be familiar. In Anglic, one might say “I am happy” or “I’m feeling sad”; in Zdetl, the same thoughts are expressed by using the possessive form of the pronoun suffix:

Pakiaik.
ハラズムス*
Happy-I; I have happiness.

Tlakiaik.
トラズムス*
Sad-I; I have sadness.

And so on. The participial and perfect forms also apply; for example:

He (or she) was afraid.
マラ王人ハルセヌ くロコセヌ*
Fear-he was-being; He had fear.

They will be in love.
レルタラセヌ ハラコセヌ*

Grammar: the Optative Aspect (pri-)

The optative tense or aspect refers to things that one hopes or wants to happen. In Zdetl, this is indicated by the construction pri' (ਪ੍ਰਿ), with the present participle -enzh (ਏਂਝ) and past perfective -ej (ਏਕ) endings. Consider the following examples (and those from the dialogue above):

Pradievl zhdatlik pri'enzh.

ਪ੍ਰਾਦੀਵਲ ਜਹਦਾਤਿਕ ਪ੍ਰਿਏਂਝ*

I hope to learn telekinesis.

Vlezhdvevl kavrish pri`ej.

Grammar: the Verb Infinitive (-e`)

The infinitive form of any verb reflects the basic concept of the root word. In Anglic, verb infinitives almost always appear in the form "to ____" as in to be, to go, to walk, to run, etc. Verbs in Zdetl have a singular word almost always ending in the -e` (ਏਕ) suffix. You should have already noted these in previous lessons and word lists.

When the verb infinitive is used in a sentence, the final ^ is dropped, leaving the -e in place. Such usages are similar to the same in Anglic:

kenkaliazhdi

Fevranzh mochite chenik.

ರ್ವಾಂಜ್ ಮೋಚಿಟೆ ಚೆನಿಕ್
I want to read a book. (Book to-read desire-I)

In this example, two verbs are present - want, the present tense of to desire, and to read, the infinitive form. Infinitives can also be used on their own when there is no additional verb or explicit subject actor:

Qlie vlezhdezhiia ezhie.

ಉತ್ತಿ ವ್ಲೆಂಡೆಂಜ್ ಇಂತ್ತಿ*

To reach the unreachable star. (Star not visitable to visit)

Atiechavra ozde, zhiazzaf ayonad ozde tozej.

Culture: Childhood Education

Education (Akimatiesi)

Education among the Zhodani focuses very much on developing well-rounded individuals capable of contributing their best work in service to the society at large. The educational process begins with early childhood and is a continual, evolving, lifelong process. Because people are themselves in a constant state of change and growth, the education of a Zhodani citizen must follow that path.

That being said, Zhodani education at its most fundamental level emphasizes three important concepts - tavr which can be interpreted as morality or duty; flieshtiemis or conformity or tradition, and dlachabris or respect. The goal of education in the Consulate is to instill a belief in and most importantly, an acceptance of these three concepts.

tavr	ରେମ	morality or duty
flieshtiemis	ଫେଷ୍ଟିଆମିସ	conformity or tradition
dlachabris	ଡଲାଚାବରିସ	respect and deference

These general, non-vocational aspects of education of all Zhodani is managed by telepathic dlenchiepr trained in teaching and capable of adjusting the educational process to each individual student's needs. Unlike non-psionic cultures that often lack knowledge of how people learn, the Zhodani have developed a deep understanding of it and are capable of individualizing education on a personal level. Tlamachtrnad or educators are assigned based on the skills of the teacher and needs of the student.

In addition to the three concepts outlined above, the Zhodani believe that creating a well-rounded, reliable, happy and harmonious citizen means focusing on three aspects of being or onqesi. These are stiel, body; zhatsi mind; and chiel soul. Each is given equal attention according to the needs of the student.

onqesi	ଅନ୍କେସି	aspects of being stiel	ଶ୍ତେଲ	body
zhatsi	ଝାତସି	mind
chiel	ଚିୟେଲ	spirit or soul
tlamachtrnad	ତଳାମାଚଟନାଡ	educators

Body (Stietl)

Maintaining one's stietltokpada or physical health is the first fundamental duty of a citizen. To this end, physical education, exercise, nutrition, and good eating habits are instilled in every citizen from an early age. Pachtanad or healers are always in attendance to monitor every student's physical health, assess progress, heal injuries, and manage illnesses.

The nature of physical education changes with the age of the student. In early childhood, play is encouraged as part of the regular schooling, with an emphasis on social play. Competitive and cooperative games are introduced, though most activities would be immediately familiar to Terran children. Games like tag, hoops, jumping rope, and climbing on physical apparatus are the norm.

As the student grows, games become more sophisticated, but still emphasizing cooperation and healthy competition. For young dlenchiepr, the physical education gradually introduces psionic training as well, integrating the three onqesi.

stietltokpada	ຫຼັກສົດຫຼັກສົດ	physical health
pachtanad	ຫຼັກຫຼັກຫຼັກ	healer
teze-tloe	ຫຼັກຫຼັກຫຼັກ	tag ("touch-run")
dlietl-dize	ຫຼັກຫຼັກຫຼັກ	jumping rope ("rope-jump")

Mind (Zhatsi)

As you might expect, zhatsitokpada or mental health is very important to the Zhodani. This aspect of education addresses how well each student is acquiring, incorporating, and synthesizing the lessons being taught. Beyond teaching the mechanics of reading, writing, maths, etc, the educators monitor each student's progress and assess whether their current educational path is appropriate for their individual aptitudes and talents.

For young dlenchiepr, this aspect of education includes training in the safe use and application of whatever dievl or psionic disciplines they might have. The assessment process continues throughout education regardless of how old the child was at zhinqetsad or Ascension.

zinakimatienetsi

Educators are continually assessing as well as teaching, to be sure the student is learning the lessons and that the lessons are being well received. If necessary, adjustments are made should a student prove unreceptive, even to the point of moving them to a different clan where their natural aptitudes may be more appropriate. Unlike in other human cultures, there is no stigma attached to these transitions - one may be born a Tliaqrnad farmer but be transferred to the Klazhnamacrnad plumber clan, and be welcomed as one of their own.

Spirit (Chiel)

The third onqesi is that of chieltokpada (ခြေခံချိန်ပဲ) or spiritual health. The Zhodani have no religion per se, so this teaching consists of daily pachtalizhatzi (ရှေ့ခုက္ခဏီဒေဝါဒ) empty mind meditation sessions where the students, under the watchful eyes of their teachers, zhatsitokpada

ဒေဝါဒသံခြေခံချိန်ပဲ

mental health

contemplate fevranzh and their role and duties pertaining to their station. Instructors supervise these meditations telepathically and, if necessary, send subtle signals reinforcing socially acceptable values and thoughts.

These sessions aren't just for reinforcement of values; they also allow the teachers and observers to assess the mental, physical and spiritual health of the students in a calm and relaxed environment. Through careful observation via shadievl (ဗုဒ္ဓပဲခာ) telepathy and pachtadievl (ရှေ့ခုက္ခဏီပဲခာ) healing, educators can subtly apply the precise therapy needed to guide the student back to fliedsi (နှစ်ပဲတဲ့), the desired state of harmonious existence.

Psionic Training (Dievlakimatienentsi)

The training of dlenchiepr necessarily incorporates dievl psionic education into the aspect of zhatsitokpada. Psionic children of all ages are encouraged to engage in social play that lets them use their talents in a safe, supervised manner. These activities often resemble the ones they do during physical training.

shadievl	ଶଦୀଏବ	telepathy
pachtadievl	ପଚ୍ଛାଦିଏବ	healing
fliedesi	ଫିୟେଦୀସି	harmonious existence

Psionic training will be discussed in greater detail in Lesson 5.

Reeducation (Akimatiensitsench)

Students who are not in a state of fliedl harmony can be taken aside for special instruction and assistance. In some cases, the tavrchedl (guardians of morality) may be called in for akimatiensitsench (ଅକିମାଣ୍ଟିସିଞ୍ଚ) or reeducation.

This is a collaborative process. Akimatiensitsench is a necessary and accepted part of life; its purpose is to identify which of the citizen's onqesi are imbalanced and why, the better to restore them to a state of fliedlas harmonious existence.

Perhaps a childhood friend or playmate was recently identified as having psionic potential and was moved to the zdobritzi. Maybe a recent injury, shock or illness is leading to machitad or phobia. Is the person having some stress at work? Is she in need of a career change? Thanks to telepathy and other psionic disciplines, any of these issues can be addressed and dealt with quickly, efficiently, and more important, without trauma or stigma.

Grammar: Comparisons

There are a few ways to compare the qualities of things in Zdetl. The most familiar way is to append suffixes to the adjective reflecting the comparative and superlative qualities; these are typically -atl (アト) superior and -tlas (アトアツ) supreme:

zhdota 曰ルル good	zhdatl 曰ルト better (superior)	zhdotlas 曰ルトアツ best (supreme) ashtiabla アスティアブ cold	ashtiablatl アスティアブタ colder	ashtiablatlas アスティアブタアツ coldest

There are other commonly used comparative suffixes that are often applied to nouns to indicate comparison to similar nouns:

-che`	王セ`	above; superior
-ach	アチ	small; inferior
-flints	アスメズ	like, similar to Recall these and others from previous lessons.

shtiefliche` シチーフリチ superior man

vlezhdvevlach ヴレズヒドヴェラフ inferior starship

When making direct comparisons between objects, actions, events, etc., the suffix -zda (アツダ) is applied to the object of comparison:

Shtiefriensh ziefrizda.
シチーフリエンシ ツイフリジダ.

The man (who is) older than (the) woman. (Older-man woman-than)

When making factual comparisons, the word el (エル) is used:

Qitache` tlachakazda el kliazhatl.
シタケチタラカザダ エル クリヤハツル.
(the) Ocean is wetter than (the) desert.

Exercises (Ajozdarad)

Translate from Zdetl.

1. Qlie Kieko zinienshens.
2. Jdistebr che` el dlenchiepr.
3. Shtiefrabriensh el zin.
4. Jemik ichakache` el jemo'd.
5. Chikakenmiztli ach el vlezhdvevlach.

Grammar: The Habitual Aspect (tsench-)

When an action or event happens regularly or continuously, the habitual aspect is used. This is indicated by the prefix tsench- (とセチ) followed by the present participle -enzh (セチ) or past perfect ending -ej (セフ):

tsench-	とセチ	habitual aspect
tsenchenzh	とセチセチ	habitual participle
tsenchej	とセチセフ	habitual perfective

There need not be any specific timetable for the action (daily, hourly, weekly, etc); using the habitual aspect on its own implies the event is repeated on some undetermined schedule:

Ajozdarish tsenchenzh.
アジョズダリシテセンチンジ
We practice regularly.

This aspect can also be used in more specific context:

Stialvra timane tsenchenzh.
ストイアルラ ティマネテセンチンジ
The train departs daily.

Exercises (Ajozdarad)

Translate from Zdetl.

1. Pliebraitspali chapanivra tlakolish.
2. Stialvra mochitens tsenchenzh.
3. Kiloens tsenchej.
4. Oyanqrnad shidrvra chilitish tsenchenzh.
5. Tako nachostialvra tlakolish tsenchenzh.

Translate from Anglic.

1. The train departs hourly.
2. We had practiced daily.
3. You read that book every year.
4. We go to the Games (Teqozdievl) every three years (Teqozdij).
5. He is always levitating.

Grammar: The Conditional Aspect (ek-)

When discussing events whose outcomes are dependent on some other factors, things that might happen if certain conditions are met, or things that could have happened, we use the conditional aspect. This is a sentence construction like any of the others previously discussed (past, future, optative, etc) and uses the prefix ek- (᜔ᜓ) in the same way:

ek-	᜔ᜓ	conditional mood
ekenzh	᜔ᜓ᜕ᜓ	participial conditional
ekej	᜔ᜓ᜕᜔	perfective conditional

The participial conditional aspect implies the future tense as well, as in “this could happen if this other thing happens”.

Pierad ekiqe, pierdish ekenzh.

ᜏ᜔ᜏ᜗᜔ ᜔ᜓ᜔ᜓ, ᜏ᜔ᜏ᜗᜔ ᜔ᜓ᜔ᜓ*

If there is a flight, then we will fly.

Notice the doubled use of the conditional ek in this example. The Anglic meaning of the statement would translate to “if ... then.” To negate the statement, we insert the negation word qlie:

Qlie pierad ekiqe, qlie pierdish ekenzh.

ᜏ᜔ ᜏ᜔ᜏ᜗᜔ ᜔ᜓ᜔ᜓ, ᜏ᜔ ᜏ᜔ᜏ᜗᜔ ᜔ᜓ᜔ᜓ*

If there is no flight, then we not will fly.

This form can also be used in combination with the verb infinitive to imply perhaps, maybe or probably. This can produce poetic language, such as that seen by the famous poet and dramatist Vrolez Chtechtelezhdalef (ՎՐՈՂ ՇԵԿ ՉԵԿՑԵՑ ԵՐԱՎԵՐԵՑ). For example:

Kochie, zdeze ekenzh.

ՀՐԱՄԱ, ՇԵԿԵ ᜔ᜓᜓ*

To sleep, perchance to dream.

Ek is also used on its own as an interjection or informal, casual response:

Q: Pierdish chtenenzh aqle?

ᜏ᜔ᜏ᜗᜔ ՖԵԿԵԿՅ ՌԾԵ/

Will we fly?

A: Ek.

᜔ᜓ*

Maybe.

Exercises (Ajozdarad)

1. We might have dinner soon.
2. Maybe I won't go to Dlolpliki.
3. She might win the Games (Teqozdievl)!
4. If she plays the Games, she might win.
5. If there is food, then we will eat.

Grammar: The Imperative Aspect (zhda-)

When giving someone an order, instruction or directive, the imperative aspect is used. Most often this is done by emphasizing the verb:

Kiat!
↗スと// Attack!

This is a less formal, more militaristic usage of the imperative that is seen commonly in situations where expedience is called for. A more formal or polite way of expressing the same instruction uses the construction zhda- (↗ス-) with the usual participial or perfective suffixes:

zhda-	↗ス-	imperative mood
zhdaenzh	↗スとヲ	imperative participle
zhdaej	↗スとヲ*	imperative perfective

The participial imperative aspect implies that the action in question must be done or is something the subject should be doing (and by inference, something the speaker is instructing the listener to do).

Kiatlo'd zhdaenzh!
↗スとロ^ド ゴスとヲ//
You must attack!

Similarly, the past perfect imperative is often used to suggest an action that should have been done.

Kochieo'd zhdaej.
ゴスモロ^ド ゴスとヲ*
You should have slept.

The construction zhda can also be used as a suffix applied to the verb to indicate a particular sense of urgency:

Makozhda! Makozhda!
ゴスゴススル// ゴスゴススル//
Help! Help!

Practice using the imperative aspect.

Exercises

1. Eat your food.
2. Read your book!
3. Go to sleep!
4. Leave!
5. You should have eaten.

Following is a scene that integrates many of the concepts and grammatical structures covered so far. It is presented here as an example of the more complex and nuanced lessons that will follow in chapters 7 to 9, which are all translations of stories. Students may read it individually or act it as a one-act play.

Scene: Three children are playing in the field, levitating various objects including balls and a hoop. Kieko approaches them cautiously with Obrenstebr. Obrenstebr introduces Kieko to the children.

The children pause their play.

Obrenstebr: Children, this is Kieko, our new dlenchiepr-child.

Aiaplor: Good to meet you, Kieko!

Niria'llients: Are you a telekinetic?

Obrenstebr: Yes, Kieko is telekinetic. She will join you in your training from now on.

Prezbra: She will do well. Kieko watch for the ball.

Kieko: What ball? (a ball flies over her head)

Prezbra: That ball. It is good to meet you.

Obrenstebr: Please join the children and play, Kieko. I must speak with your dlenchiepr-mothers.

Kieko: Thank you, Obrenstebr. Aiaplor, what are we playing?

Aiaplor: Levitation and throwing! One of us levitates a ball and the others try to hit it telekinetically.

Niria'llients: Try it, it's fun! I'll levitate a ball. (He concentrates and the largest ball floats upward) Now, move a ball telekinetically and try to make it hit mine.

Kieko: Ok... (she concentrates and a ball begins to float. Slowly it moves toward the larger ball.)

Prezbra: It's going to fall.

Aiaplor: Quiet, Prezbra. (To Kieko) He thinks he's a precognitive.

(Kieko's ball gets close to the larger ball, then falls)

Kieko: it's too far away!

Niria'llients: Don't worry, you'll get better at it. We practice every day. Want to try again?

Kieko; Yes, please!

Culture: Psionic Education

The most important function of Zhodani childhood education is psionic evaluation or tekoandievl (ទេកោណីវល) and training. Every Zhodani child is tested and monitored almost from birth for any sign of heightened psionic ability (dievlicheliad, ទេវិឆេលីអាល); those who show significant potential are immediately identified and, if zhant'ad, removed from the clan to be assigned to a suitable dlenchiepr couple or family. Because dievlicheliad rarely manifests so early, all children are monitored by their clan or parents for any sign of emergent talent (tlatzedievl, ទាត់ចេតិដីវល). The children are also evaluated every teqozdij or three years by a trained psionic physician (tlamatqinad, ទាត់ចាក់ចេតិនាគ), who is always either a dlenchiepr or zdobrdievl.

At the time of this writing, the Zhodani have identified a wide range of psionic talents which are in common use in the Consulate.

stefedievl	ពេជ្ជេជ្ជិន	blocking pachtadievl	នរបុរាណិន	healing
ziefpachtdievl	កម្រៃនរបុរាណិន	empathic healing
shadievl	ដំបូងិន	telepathy
pradievl	នរបុរាណិន	telekinesis
tlakoyedievl	ពេជ្ជេជ្ជិនប៉ុបុជ្ជិន	awareness
koetsdievl	នរបុរាណិន	teleportation
petlandievl	នរបុរាណិន	clairvoyance
tepozdiefadievl	គេហទេសចរណិន	machine symbiosis
miliiedievl	កុងិនិន	mimic
tlamakedievl	ពេជ្ជេជ្ជិនប៉ុបុជ្ជិន	psychic transfer
koetsfredrdievl	នរបុរាណិនប៉ុបុជ្ជិន	teleprojection

There are rumors of other psionic talents having been discovered and explored, including precognition or zhavadievl (ខោវាទិនិន), but these are unconfirmed.

Training Psionic Children

Regardless of the specific talent identified, the next step teaching the child in the accepted, correct and safe use of their abilities. This is a well-established process that was established in the early days of the Consulate and has persisted largely unchanged for nearly 6,000 years.

The dlenchiepr the child is assigned to assume responsibility for the care,

medicine and psionics

health, and psionic training of the dlenchieprzin. They have other duties as well, which the child is introduced to over time, typically beginning at their fourth teqozdij.

Social play is encouraged at all ages. Young dlenchieprzin typically play with peers who share their same dievl talents, and as they grow and develop their skills they play in increasingly mixed groups - telepaths play alongside telekinetics, clairvoyants and others. The reason for this is simple - in adult life they will interact regularly with others of varying talents and ability levels and must know their own strengths and limitations as well as those of others. This is, after all, training for future leadership roles.

Teaching a pradrzin to fly

As the children age, the games become more complex and varied, integrating the psionic talents to a greater degree. The play becomes more competitive as well. Older children assume mentorship roles, encouraging them to stretch their abilities. In keeping with the Zhodani philosophy of fliedl (飛翔), psionic and physical activity are integrated.

koetsezad	飞 ^テ と ^セ ズ ^ア ド	teleport tag
ololiprasibr	飞 ^テ と ^リ ス ^イ ブ ^ル	telekinetic dodge ball
zhatstlani	飞 ^テ と ^ス タ ^ル ニ	telepathic "telephone"
vrendametlosi	迷 ^ハ と ^ラ マ ^ス ト ^リ シ	maze running

Young children learn primarily through play (chilitad, 王人^ウレ^ルア^ド), and the education of children from their first teqozdievl to their third is mostly structured play with a minimum of classroom instruction.

medicine and psionics

Shared Thoughts

From their third to fifth teqozdij, the dlenchieprzin training focuses increasingly on working with others who have different talents. In addition, because many dlenchiepr are able to use more than one psionic talent, such children are taught to use their skills in combination or complement to each other. For some, this is more natural - a koetsnad naturally requires foreknowledge of their destination, so one who is also a petlanad or clairvoyant can easily be taught to scan an area before teleporting there.

The play at this level becomes more competitive, encouraging team-based collaboration and limited, approved competition. As usual, the activities are monitored and approved by the adult dlenchiepr teachers.

Classroom instruction becomes more frequent at this stage, and is augmented by the telepathic skills of the teachers.

Integrating telepathy with teaching has made classroom teaching for all ages highly efficient, controllable, and individualized for the student. Through telepathy, tlamachtrnad, とくらまちんぬなだ instructors can quickly assess a student's comprehension and understanding of a lesson, and make adjustments to the lesson or methodology during the lesson if needed.

Unlike most other human societies, which lack a clear understanding of how people learn, the Zhodani know exactly how each individual processes information and can tailor lessons to the needs of each student.

Preparing a young koetszin for her first (intentional) jump

Adult Life Preparation

The ultimate goal of any education is, naturally, preparation for adult professional life. From their fourth teqozdij until they become full dlenchiepr at their sixth, the fun and games become more focused on applying their skills and talents to real-world applications.

By this age, the child's non-psionic talents, aptitudes and interests are well known, and psionic training can be integrated with formal vocational instruction. A pradrnad with natural mechanical aptitude can be trained to manipulate engines and other machinery and be trained as an engineer; a shadrnad with good interpersonal skills can be taught negotiation

medicine and psionics

(zhdrbjalad, ゾルトジアラド) and diplomacy (da'zhdashtiad, ドラズダシヤード); a koetsnad with tactical knowledge and possibly a secondary talent of petlandievl might be recruited to train teleportation commandoes for the military or employed in search-and-rescue operations. Petlanad with geological knowledge could be employed in mining (etedesi, エテデシ) or archeology (ienshatriem, イエンシャトリエム) exploration and research.

The vocational training of future dlenchiepr mirrors that of zhant'ad, except that the students are being specially trained to assume leadership positions as part of the zhobrdievl nobility.

Tlamachti 6 - Game Day

This lesson is a little different from the previous ones. By now you should be familiar enough with the grammar and structure of Zdetl to be able to read the text; instead of short conversational exchanges between characters, this chapter has three narrative scenes with dialogue and description, presented in dramatic form. As in previous lessons, the Anglicized and Zdetl text is presented first, followed by a list of new vocabulary words, then an Anglic translation of the scene presented.

If you are studying Zdetl in a group, you may find it useful or even amusing to read or act out the scenes with your study partners.

The chapter is presented in three scenes, each relating to a visit to the Teqozdielevl (テコズディエヴル) games, the legendary competition held throughout and within the Driantia Zhdantia (ドリアントニア ジュダントニア) for the purpose of testing the skills of the dlenchiepr, the future ruling class. The Teqozdielevl will be discussed in greater detail in Interlude 6.

Read each section slowly and carefully, out loud if possible. Pay attention to pronunciation and watch for new vocabulary and new word combinations. There will be no exercises in this chapter; the purpose is to stretch your reading ability and prepare you for Lessons 7 to 9, which are stories from Zhodani history and are presented entirely in Zdetl.

EXT. THE ZDOBRDIEVL ESTATE GROUNDS - DAY

Four children, NIRIA'LIENTS, KIEKO, AIAPLOR, and PREZBRA are playing in the field, levitating balls and hoops and making them fly through the air. An adult teacher, AZHDIAZHIEPR, observes.

NIRIA'LIENTS

Good throw, Kieko! It went right through the hoop!

KIEKO

Let me have the hoop now!

NIRIA'LIENTS

If you can catch it, you can have it!

Niria'lents waves his hand and the hoop begins to fall.

Kieko watches it fall. A meter above the ground it stops.

KIEKO

Ha! I got it!

Azhdiazhiepr approaches the children. As she does, all the balls begin to float and orbit each other.

AZHDIAZHIEPR

Excellent lesson, children. You're all showing great improvement. Now, it's time to eat - go bathe before dinner.

CHILDREN

Yes, Azhdiazhiepr.

AIAPLOR (to KIEKO)

Your mother is really good.

AZHDIAZHIEPR

And don't forget - tomorrow is the Teqozastial. We will leave for Dlolpliki for the Teqozdievl after breakfast.

KIEKO

The Teqozdievl? Really?

PREZBRA

Yes, our zdobritzi has a dlenchiepr in the games this year.

EXT. AT THE TEQOZDIEVL COMPLEX - DAY

KIEKO and her mothers AZHDIAZHIEPR and VELMIEPR arrive at the entry to the Teqozdievl Arena complex. The complex has three large rings hundreds of meters across and surrounded by viewing stands and observer towers. Outside the arenas, groups of spectators are talking excitedly about the upcoming events and placing bets on their favored competitors.

The three greet a small group of zhant'ad.

VELMIEPR

Look, Kieko! I think I see Nor and Ikan Tliaqrnad.

AZHDIAZHIEPR

We should greet them.

AZHDIAZHIEPR calls out to the Zhant'ad.

AZHDIAZHIEPR

Greetings, Ikan and Nor!

The two Zhant'ad turn toward her.

NOR

Good day, my ladies! It's a fine day for the games, yes? Oh, my, is this Kieko? She's gotten so big!

VELMIEPR

Yes, she has, and she's becoming a very strong pradrnad.

IKAN

You must be very proud of her.

VELMIEPR

We are. You were good zhant'ad-parents to her.

IKAN

Thank you, my lady.

NOR

We have news as well, my lady. I am being transferred to clan Programmer.

AZHDIAZHIEPR

Congratulations! This is a fine opportunity for you.

teqozdievl

IKAN

Nor, shall we find our section? The gates are open.

KIEKO

Have fun at the games, zhant'ad-parents!

INT. IN THE TEQOZDIEVL ARENA - DAY

KIEKO, AZHDIAZHIEPR and VELMIEPR sit in the arena stands high above a Teqozdievl arena ring. Below, the games continue. Competitors play a complex game involving a hill, balls of various sizes and mass, telekinesis and teleportation.

KIEKO

Mother, what's happening? It's so confusing.

AZHDIAZHIEPR

This is the first telekinetic elimination round, Kieko. The players must climb the hill while avoiding the rocks, which are being telekinetically thrown at them by other players.

KIEKO

Oh. It looks fun, but strange.

VELMIEPR

This brings back memories, doesn't it, Azh?

KIEKO

What do you mean, mother?

AZHDIAZHIEPR

We met during the last Teqozdievl, Kieko.

KIEKO

Oh! Were you watching the games?

VELMIEPR

We were competitors, Kieko. I was from zdobritzi Chiadl, she was from Zietzhe...

AZHDIAZHIEPR

...and now we're both with zdobritzi Zdiadrianzh. But that's a story for another day.

KIEKO

Aw...

VELMIEPR

Look, one is almost to the summit!

teqozdievl

Below, one of the competitors dodges two balls as they career toward him. He sprints toward the top of the hill is hit from behind by a third, smaller ball.

KIEKO

He almost won!

AZHDIAZHIEPR

So close. That's how it goes, though.
Want some fish cakes?

The three nibble on fish cake snacks while watching the games.

Culture: The Psionic Games

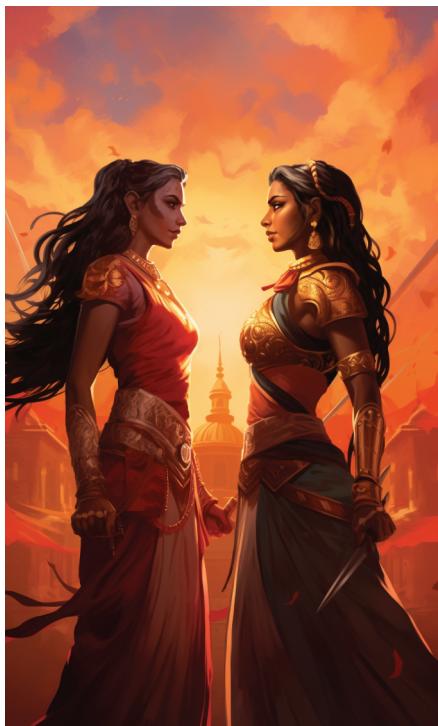

Of all the unusual aspects of Zhodani culture, perhaps the most mysterious, misunderstood, and mythologized is the famed Teqozdievl (ទេកូស្សិវល), the so-called Psionic Games.

Though the Zhodani participate in a wide variety of athletic and academic contests, some competitive but most cooperative in nature, the Teqozdievl is the most important such competition. It is open only to dlenchiepr (ឌីឡិចីបុរី), for whom it is a once in a lifetime opportunity to show their talents and skills in a very public setting. The Teqozdievl are also the only sporting event that recognizes and rewards individual achievement - the winners of the games are granted immediate promotion to the ranks of the zdobrdievl (ទេដុប្តិវល) with all the rights, duties, and honors thereof.

History of the Games

It is widely accepted that the first Teqozdievl were held sometime after the end of the Dzaqlasqik (ជាគាលពីនុញ្ញូខ្មែរ), the Time of Great Dying, commonly known in modern times as the Second Dark Age, likely in celebration of the end a thousand years of death and chaos to herald a new, civilized age. While the precise nature of those first games is now lost to history, the traditions of competition and elevating the winners lives on.

The Teqozdievl are played throughout the year on every Consulate world. Each zdobritzi (ទេដុប្តិគុណ) noble fief sends representatives, always dlenchiepr of exceptional talent, to compete in the local, regional, and global levels. Contestants who do particularly well might even be sent to the vlezhdivraji (វិលីខុណាប់រី) subsector and eventually the vlezhdivr (វិលីខុណា) sector level competitions.

The Competitions

Few outsiders have ever witnessed the Teqozdievl, and those who do often come away more confused than enlightened. Because most of the action in many of the games is mental, relying on shadievl (シラズチ) telepathy or petlandievl (シカヒアラズチ) clairvoyance, the games can be very hard to follow even for natives. Even the games with clear physical aspects involving pradievl (シラズチ) telekinesis, koetsdievl (シロセヒアラズチ) teleportation or chtekotldievl (シカヒアラズチ) awareness can become chaotic and confusing as many of the competitors are likely to be skilled in multiple talents, and using them to their fullest ability.

Every Zhodani citizen follows the Teqozdievl, from the lowest ranking zhant'ad to the highest ranking zdrobrdielevl. Any time the games are held in a city or region, they are a grand spectacle. Members of the nobility are expected to attend, particularly if they have chosen dlenchiepr from their staff as competitors. The games are, after all, one of the ways the future leadership of the Consulate is chosen.

Gambling

While it may seem ironic and even out of character, betting on the outcome of specific events is common and even encouraged during the Teqozdievl. Friendly wagers under controlled and monitored circumstances are considered essential to building community and harmony between the various zhant'ad clans.

Like so many other aspects of Zhodani culture, gambling on the games is never taken to excess, for such would attract the attention of the Tavrchedl and result in counseling or reeducation.

The Winner's Circle

The Teqozdievl traditionally lasts for three chten (シケン) or one teqozdij, at the end of which the winners are announced. This always takes place on Teqozastial (シカヒアラコアラスル) or Olympiad Day, a special holiday added to the New Year celebration following Dranzhrin (シルクアマタ) or Sunbright.

Hard Landing - Draitspitzikad

The following story, Hard Landing, is a short vignette set during the early days of the Dzaqtias, the “Great Death” plague that brought ruin to Zhdant and nearly left the planet devoid of human life.

Our Wondrous Universe

The following is an example of the kind of scholarly article that might be found in the archives of one of the many universities and research institutes in Consulate space. Though reclusive and often xenophobic, the Zhodani have engaged in trade and diplomatic relations with other cultures including the Darrians, the Sword Worlds, and the Vargr. The abstract presented here discusses the many variations of non-Zhodani cultures one might encounter outside the Consulate.

It is presented here in three forms; the Anglic translation, the Anglicized Zdetl, and the original Zdetl text.

Introduction

记录

As a Vargr-Zhodani Intendant in graduate school, I was guided into studies of nonhuman sophonts. The Consulate Naval Expeditionary Division had long studied the Daryen, both openly and covertly. But physiologically Aslan Daryen ("PAD" hereafter) had not been specifically studied. I was given that assignment. I have written numerous reports within the Expeditionary Division and academia, but given recent increases in interactions with the Daryen, I am now writing for a general audience.

ରୂପର ରୂପର

In general, we know of Aslan (Fteirle in their own common language, Trokh) as nonhuman sophonts quite unlike ourselves, whether human, Vargr, Addaxur, or others. Their males are primarily concerned with matters such as fighting, command, honor, and their famous obsession with land ownership. Their more numerous females manage other aspects of their society: trade, industry, services, academic pursuits, and everything else.

ଶ୍ରୀକରଣାର ଶ୍ରୀକରଣାର ପରମାତ୍ମା

Aslan in Daryen society are very different. In most respects, they're similar to Daryen humans: peaceful, academically adept, fascinated by technology, and fond of the arts. Mainstream Aslan regard them -- and Daryen humans -- as "female", regardless of physical gender. One significant similarity to mainstream Aslan is that PAD are quite conscious of honor. An important point of PAD honor is that they identify as "physiologically Aslan Daryen", as opposed to "culturally Daryen Aslan". This is quite unlike most Zhodani sophonts, who are little concerned for labels so long as we are treated as equals to Zhodani humans.

Aslan, particularly mainstream Aslan, are very alien to Zhodani sophonts. As a telepath, I find Aslan minds very different from those of humans and Vargr, though PAD are less alien. Although Addaxur are just as different, familiarity with Addaxur offers few insights into the Aslan mind.

As a Vargr, I can read Vargr and human scents and body language without hesitation. Aslan scents are largely incomprehensible even with experience. Aslan body language is difficult, but can be learned over time, particularly with PAD. My human colleagues have reported less difficulty with PAD body language, but also find mainstream Aslan difficult to read.

Vlezhdizar! - The Lost Colony

Chtolmiquia Zhdatlodliafl

王の世界をめぐる冒險小説

In this story, the scene is set on a distant world, far along the path of the Core Expeditions (for historical context, see the Traveller Wiki entry at https://wiki.travellerrpg.com/Core_Expedition), possibly sometime during the fifth or sixth such sojourn. The crew of a Ninz-class scout ship has touched down on an strange planet and is about to explore the ruins of an ancient temple complex.

The Core Expeditions have been the subject of popular entertainment in the Consulate for hundreds of years, being a source of both national pride and cultural unity. Much of the early fiction has attained the status of legend throughout the core of Consulate space.

This story represents one such artistic endeavor, a video serial called タケコトノハル (Vlezhdizar; literally, “Star Journey”). The script the follows is a few scenes from one episode of such a show.

Fifth Frontier War Battle Hymn

From the year 3240.1 (Imperial year 589) to the present, the Zhodani have fought five interstellar wars against their chief rival, the Third Imperium. Like many human cultures, the Zhodani composed battle songs singing the praises of their own forces to build up patriotic support for the war among the people.

This example is a fragment of a much longer song reminiscent of the epic poems like Gilgamesh, the Iliad, the Viking sagas, and other styles common to Bronze or Iron Age Terran cultures. The metrical structure is typical of Zhodani verse and is a variation of anapestic or dactylic nonameter, with each line having nine syllables and the accent falling on the second, fifth, and eighth syllable of each line.

Another feature common to classical Terran epic poems is the repetition of certain themes or epithets; in this one, the Zhodani are consistently described as “brave Zhodani” (Zhdantia atiecha) while the Imperial forces are repeatedly described as the “barbaric, grasping Imperium” (baza, adrea Qlomatlivr). The chorus itself highlights the noble goals of the Zhodani forces, emphasizing harmony for all (zhi’fliedl iaqotzens Zhodani) in contrast with the destructive Imperium (Qlomatlivra baza iaqotz’nad).

(struggle universal, near and far)

Characters

Both this book and its companion volume Beginning Zdetl tell the story of a Zhodani child, Kieko, in her daily life beginning with her origins as a child of zhant'ad parents. In Beginning Zdetl she is identified as having psionic potential early in life (approximately her third year or first teqozdij) and is adopted by a pair of dlenchiepr, as is the Zhodani custom, to develop her talents in preparation for her future role as part of the psionic nobility, the zhobrdievl.

In this section, Kieko and her dlenchieprziefri or Intendant mothers are presented in Traveller™ terms, with full character sheets and biographies up to the present day (year 1105 Imperial, for the purposes of these books). They are available to players and referees alike and can be freely included in your Traveller™ games.

Biography:

3454.1: Born to Nor and Ikan Tliaqrnad by natural birth on Zhdant

3455.1: First began showing signs of telekinesis at age three, she was taken to the capital for evaluation and testing. She was assigned as adoptee to a dlenchiepr couple, Azhdiazchiepr and Velmiepr, for proper training, education and preparation for leadership. She participated in team sports and became very proficient at competitive swimming.

3460.1: As is the custom, Kieko begins her adult career path as a linguist, with concentrations in psionicology and psychology. During her first term she makes a breakthrough in the study of telekinetics, for which she earns her first promotion. She continues to excel in her fields and during her second term is accepted as a contestant in the Teqozdievl games.

3461.1: After being recognized for her talents and psionic skills, Kieko competes in the triennial Teqozdievl. She rapidly outpaces her peers, winning all three divisions of her talents and earning a promotion to the ranks of zdrobdievl.

3462.2: Having completed the games, Kieko (now Kiekoatl) returns to her previous career where she becomes mired in bureaucracy. This works to her benefit, as she improves her skills at negotiation and diplomacy.

3463.1: Her dlenchiepr-mother Azhdiazchiepr passes into Tavrian at age 67 (22.1 teqozdijj). Kieko continues her career path.

3465.1: Kiekoatl makes another breakthrough in a distinguished career and decides to retire, earning the Nenjchinze'driante, the Consular Legion of Merit, for her work. She is also granted a Ninz class scout ship and equipment to continue her research.

Retires from Academia in 3467.2 (1105 Imperial)

Her ship, the Yolitla (Opportunity), is a fairly standard Ninz-class scout ship and is pictured on page 159. She shares it with Velmiepr, her surviving dlenchieprziefri (Intendant-mother) and two other crewmen who handle the daily operations. It is capable of Jump-2 and Maneuver-2, and has all the standard features of a Zhodani ship, including a common area with a shared bath.

Appendix F - Name Conversion

The method for converting an English/Anglic name to Zdetl is a fairly simple five-step process. Try it with your own name, or use it when you need to come up with Zhodani names quickly.

Step 1. Drop all starting and ending vowels. For example, Jeff Kazmierski becomes Jeff Kazmiersk.

Step 2. Combine repeated consonants. For example, Jeff Kazmiersk becomes Jef Kazmiersk.

Step 3. Apply vowel changes as shown on table 1, Vowel Conversions. In these examples, Jef Kazmiersk becomes Jaf Kezmersk.

Step 4. Identify syllable breaks and apply the Initial Consonant changes as shown on table 2. Consonant Conversions (column 2). In these examples, Jaf Kezmersk becomes Naf Fezzersk.

Step 5. Apply the Final Consonant changes as shown on table 2, Consonant Conversions (column 3). Now, Naf Fezzersk becomes Nasht Fezzedichf.

Step 6. Finally, edit any extraneous consonants to fit the Zdetl word construction rules. In this step, Nasht Fezzedlchf becomes Nasht Fezedl.

Step 7 (optional). For nobility, drop the surname and append the noble suffix to the first name.

The same process can be used to create new words as well, though for that purpose it is better to do a thorough etymological analysis of the meaning of the word and if possible, derive the new form from existing vocabulary.

Behind the Name

Naming in Zhodani culture follows patterns typical of most other human societies. Children are given individual names at birth (or some time after, usually before their third chtern) which remain largely unchanged throughout their lives.

Zhant'ad choose a second name upon adulthood. This is traditionally a clan or family name, and is not always permanent as changing clans or families is more common among the Zhodani than other humaniti. Among zhant'ad, one's clan name tells others what one's current profession or station in life is, and depending on regional traditions, can even indicate relative social rank or status within the clan.

All Zhodani are tested for psionic potential throughout childhood; those who show high ability are elevated to the ranks of dlenchiepr and upon adulthood, assuming they show the appropriate aptitude, devotion, and talent, they are allowed to append the suffix -iepr to their given names. Dlenchiepr and Zhobrdievl, unlike zhant'ad, do not keep their family or clan names; their noble suffix replaces any familial association.

As is the case with other civilized peoples, Zhodani names are not mere strings of syllables and sounds; they have meanings and often a rich cultural history behind them. The construction of a given name typically involves elements from Zdetl, with roots in philosophical, familial, or cultural practices. In many Terran cultures, names like "John" or "Mary" have religious origins, coming from Hebrew names such as Yohanan ("God is gracious") or Mariam ("beloved").

In other parts of the world, such as in Africa or Asia, given names often hold specific meanings that can relate to the circumstances of birth, the wishes of the parents, or spiritual beliefs. For instance, in many African cultures, names like "Kwame" (born on Saturday in the Akan culture) reflect the day of the week on which the child was born. Similarly, in many Asian cultures, names are carefully constructed with meaning tied to elements of nature, virtues, or ancestral heritage. In Japan, for example, the name Sakura

Shiv + va + zin

moon + light + child

Shivvazin (n)

Shivvazo (m)

Shivvazia (f)

means "cherry blossom"; Sachiko comes from "happiness" and "child" (-ko); Akira can mean "bright" or "clear" depending on the specific Kanji used.

Most Zhodani given names are derived from similar traditions. A child born under a full moon, for example, might be given the name "Shivvazin", or "child of moonlight"; a parent who cultivates decorative gardens might choose a name derived from a flower, much like "Rose" or "Hyacinth" in Terran English. Sometimes alternative spellings become popular as a way of making a name more unique or unusual; these are, of course, subject to review for moral appropriateness and cultural fitness. For example, alternatives to Shivvazin might include Chiva, Shizav, Shiva, or Ch`vazi. Zhodani parents are just as imaginative in naming their children as are Terran parents.

appendix f

Traditionally, Zhodani given names assigned to children are usually neutral in gender and form, though some are more commonly associated with boy or girl children. This is more reflective of their popularity of usage than any gender-specific association, however. The decision of whether to append a gendered ending to one's name is usually left up to the individual and can be done at any time (subject to review by the Tavrchedl, of course).

Often, boys' names are given an -o or -fri ending while girls often end in -qi, -ia, -i or -a. Note that many names appear in both columns without change.

For example, a child assigned the name Shivvazin might, as he or she matures, choose to append the masculine or feminine ending to their name and may even change between endings throughout life. Shivvazin might become Shivvazo, Shivvazia, or some variation thereof depending on their preferred gender identity.

From an etymological perspective, given names can be derived from almost any word in the lexicon, though some are less practical than others. Feel free to improvise and experiment.

Appendix F - Zhodani Calendar

The standard Zhodani calendar follows a year on Zhdant and is comprised of 244 local days or zhdanstial of 27.02 standard hours each (local days on other worlds are simply called stial). The year or cten is divided into six months, also known as shidr or seasons of 40 days each.

Each shidr has a color associated with it, corresponding to the visible spectrum observed on Zhdant. Because the solitary main star of the Zhdant system, Pliebr, is a K-class dwarf star that radiates more strongly in the red end of the spectrum, rainbows on Zhdant appear very different than on Terra. The light from Pliebr peaks at about 650nm, or deep red; the rest of the visible spectrum covers the familiar orange, yellow, and green wavelengths. Blue and Violet are almost entirely unknown on Zhdant, and Pliebr puts out almost no ultraviolet light.

The colors associated with the shidr follow this pattern. The zhdanzhdanstial holidays each have a pair of colors associated with them, one of which is a metallic shade.

Dranzhrin (ドランズヒン)

The Zhodani calendar begins with the zhdanzhdanstial of Dranzhrin, the new year celebrated annually on the Vernal Equinox between Ashtiavl and Atrint. This holiday celebrates both the end of the cold of winter and the beginning of the rainy spring season. Its colors are tatlilik and zhotlik, red and gold.

Atrint (アトリント)

The rainy spring season of Atrint (“Rain”) follows the late winter thaw and is the first shidr on the Zhodani calendar. Atrint is traditionally associated with preparing the fields in the first half of the season and planting during the latter half. During Atrint, fishermen prepare their boats for the spring fish migrations.

The color associated with Atrint is tatlilik, red.

Viepchaklstial (ヴィエックラクルスティアル)

The zhdanzhdanstial of Viepchaklstial (“Moon Day”) occurs between Atrint and Vrienstrial, marking the transition from the rainy spring season to the warmer summer season. It is a holiday that in modern times is largely a holdover from an earlier time when the moon Viepchakl held religious significance. Though its original purpose is long forgotten, the holiday is still celebrated as a festival of wild abandon. Zhant'ad are encouraged to celebrate with a night of partying and debauchery (a relative term in the Consulate), while the nobility tend to be more reserved in their revelry. The following weeks often see an increase in re-educations.

The colors associated with Viepchaklstial are qiltik and viepanzhelik, green and copper.

Vrienstrial (ヴィエンスティアル)

The shidr of Vrienstrial (“Heat”) is the summer season of Zhdant, when temperatures rise and the winds shift bringing dry air from across the desert to the western coastlands.

The color associated with Vrienstrial is chtopiatlik, orange.

Atchafser (アチャフサー)

Atchafser (“Waning”) is the autumn season when the heat of the summer begins to fade and the weather becomes cooler and more temperate. The crops are maturing during this season and farmers prepare for the harvest.

The color of Atchafser is yellow.

Dranzhrinatch (ドランズリナッチ)

The autumnal equinox between Vrienstrial and Atchafser, when the early harvests of the year are traditionally brought in and the boats are prepared for the autumnal fish migrations. Dranzhrinatch is also a time when the Zhodani commemorate the dead and is associated with feelings of sadness and melancholy.

The colors of Dranzhrinatch are zhotlik and qitlik, gold and green.

Ataniebl (アタニアブル)

The fourth shidr of the Zhodani calendar is Ataniebl ("Harvest"), when the farmers bring the crops in for the cold winter seasons. Deciduous trees begin to shed their leaves, which turn various shades of green and purple as the colors fade. Fishermen and aquaculturists take advantage of the late year migrations for a final major catch.

The color of Ataniebl is qitlik, green.

Kazdievlstial (カズディーブルスティアル)

The final zhdanzhdanstial of the Zhodani calendar is Kazdievlstial, a harvest festival held between Ataniebl ("Waning") and Ashtiavl ("Freezing"). Kazdievlstial is traditionally a day of feasting and celebration in preparation for the cold winter season.

The colors of Kazdievlstial are qitlik, kamotik and va'anzhelik; green, purple and silver.

Ashtiavl (アシティアル)

The fifth shidr of the Zhodani calendar is Ashtiavl ("Freezing"), the cold winter season that follows the harvest. The northern sea coasts become covered in ice and the growing season ends in the northern hemisphere.

The color of Ashtiavl is qitlik, teal.

Atpiapr (アツピアープル)

The year ends with Atpiapr ("Thawing"), the season between the freezing days of Ashtiavl and the warmer, wetter spring season of Atrint.

The color of Atpiapr is kamotik, purple.

Teqozastial (テコゾアスティアル)

Every three chten a special holiday, Teqozastial (Third Year Day, often mistranslated as "Olympiad Day") is added as a "leap day" to synchronize the calendar. This day is inserted after Dranzhrin and serves also as the day for announcing council election results and winners of the Teqozdievl Psionic Games.

Every ninth year the Teqozastial celebration is extended by an additional day; this is called Atteqozastial or Great Third Year Day.

The color of Teqozastial is izhtak, white, matching the color traditionally worn by dlenchiepr competing in the Teqozdievl.

Blue Eyes (ブルー・アイズ ブルーハイズ)

The Zhodani are mostly genetically homogenous, having had little contact and less interbreeding with the other branches of Humaniti. The stereotypical Zhodani has dark brown or black hair, green or brown eyes, and skin tones from pale tan to medium brown, depending on their system of origin.

While blue eyes are not entirely unknown among the Zhodani, they are extremely rare. During the early days of psionic development they were thought to be associated with unusual talents or particularly powerful psions, but this is known not to be true. Such individuals are often sought after, but not for psi-related reasons - they're simply considered very attractive.

Qliejzel - the Floating Stones (クルゼル)

An unusual strategy game resembling Terran go or paduk but played in three dimensional space, played telekinetically by two players who must maintain the evolving strategic position throughout the duration of the game. It is one of the many events of the Teqozdievl competitions and considered the peak display of skill for telekinetic competitors as maintaining the formation without disturbing the structure requires a high degree of precise telekinetic control. Professional players tour Driantia space instructing younger pradnad in fine control and helping them develop their talents.

Another example of Imperial anti-Zhodani propaganda, depicting a young woman of mysterious origin attempting to seduce an unsuspecting Naval officer. Obviously, actual Tozjabr field agents are more subtle than this.
